Navy's Newest Blimp Crashes

Completed as a training craft four months ago, the U. S. Navy's newest blimp, the L-2, is seriously damaged as it crashes in a cedar swamp near the Lakehurst (N. J.) Naval Air Station. Craft was making a test take-off when the accident happened. None of the crew of five was injured . . . and damage appeared to be chiefly confined to the craft's fabric.

ROOSEVELT NAMES PRICE-FIXING CHIEF

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order creating an agency to control prices and avert inflation, and named Leon Henderson, former head of the SEC, as director of the new organization.

The President acted after defense officials complained of rising prices in many commodities essential to the preparedness program.

There have been price rises also in consumer goods, including certain foodstuffs, which have added to the cost of living.

Henderson, who has been head of the National Defense Commission's price stabilization organization, already has acted in several cases to prevent prices of certain commodities from sky-rocketing. These price ceilings were placed on such products as scrap aluminum, second-hand machine tools, bituminous coal, zinc, iron and steel scrap.

PREVENT SPIRALING

Although ceilings were set on prices in these commodities, the defense commission had no power to enforce these maximums.

Less than a half hour after the President had created the new agency, Henderson warned dealers and producers of cadmium to stop charging "extortionate prices" or face drastic action by the government.

Cadmium is used for electroplating, as an alloy of copper in telegraphic, telephonic and power transmission wires and in automobile bearings; also as a substitute for iron and nickel.

WHAT ORDER MEANS

In setting up the new price agency, the President is co-ordinating the control of both consumer prices and those prevailing in the industries.

Consumer prices have been under the jurisdiction of Miss Harriet Elliott.

The President's executive order specified:

"That the new agency 'take all lawful steps necessary to prevent price spiraling, rising costs of living, profiteering and inflation resulting from market conditions caused by the diversion of large segments of the nation's resources to the defense program.'"

Henderson is directed to use all existing laws in carrying out federal price control. If these are inadequate, he is directed to recommend any additional legislation deemed necessary.

The executive order cited several statutes, including the draft industry clause of the selective serv-

British Forces Open Major Battle With Germans in Greece

By the Associated Press

British expeditionary troops were reported today to have "established contact" with Hitler's blitzkrieg invaders in northern Greece as Nazi panzer column knifed clear across lower Yugoslavia to threaten Greece from a new direction—the northwest.

The London radio said German forces were advancing into the Aegean kingdom through the Bitolj (Monastir) gap at Yugoslavia's border.

It was apparently in this sector that a great and perhaps decisive battle between the Germans and British was developing.

The British radio said German troops were attempting to fight their way through the gap under heavy RAF attack.

The BEF commander, issued in Athens, said briefly:

"German forces in northern Greece came into contact with British and imperial troops on April 10."

The Hungarian army, meanwhile, took a hand in events by moving across the Yugoslav frontier to occupy territory which Hungary surrendered in a World War settlement.

Dispatches from Budapest quoted Hungarian Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy as saying the action was taken to protect Hungarian residents against anarchy.

In Berlin the German high command asserted the Serb army in southern Yugoslavia was "destroyed" and that Nazi columns plunging northward toward Belgrade from Nis "are in close pursuit of the Serbs."

BELGRADE HOLDING OUT

Unconfirmed reports had previously listed Belgrade as captured, but the high command's report would indicate that the bomb-smashed Yugoslav capital still was holding out.

A BEF communique said that Nazi panzer forces had reached Yanitsa, 35 miles northwest of captured Salonika, but that "resistance to the German advance is stiffening in southern Yugoslavia."

The British communique said the situation in eastern Macedonia—the locale of the so-called Greek "lost army" trapped by the German seizure of Salonika—was "obscure but characterized by the magnificent resistance of the Greeks."

Previously, the Germans had claimed the Greek east wing had surrendered and 80,000 Greeks had been taken prisoner.

A special communique by the German high command declared several Yugoslav divisions had been "shattered" and 10,000 new prisoners taken. Twenty thousand already had been reported captured.

The new threat to Greece sized up as an attempt to flank British-Greek defense forces strung out along the Greek peninsula from fabled Mt. Olympus, near Salonika, to Chimarra, on the Adriatic sea coast—and possibly to cut off Greek troops still fighting against the Italians in Albania.

British RAF reports disclosed the BALKAN THEATER OF WAR—Trapped deep in eastern Macedonia (1), Greek soldiers were still holding out today as the Nazi onslaught continued in other sections. Belgrade (2) reportedly fell, Zagreb (3) was said to be in Nazi hands and other German legions pushed to a point near the junction (4) of Greece, Yugoslavia and Albania. Nazi tanks were reported rolling down the Aegean coast (5) from Salonika . . . while the British and Greek armies manned new defense line (6) from the Aegean to the Adriatic. Other reports said Italian troops in Albania launched two drives (7 and 8) into Yugoslavia.

F. D. REOPENS RED SEA ROUTE TO U. S. SHIPPING

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—President Roosevelt today took drastic action to bolster the cause of the embattled democracies of Europe, including the authorization of American ships to carry vital war supplies virtually to the doorstep of the war-torn Mediterranean through the Red sea.

The following measures were announced by the President at his press conference:

Withdrawal of the combat zone barrier between Italian Somaliland and the Arabian coast which hitherto prevented American ships from entering the Gulf of Aden and the Red sea from the Indian ocean.

Signing of a Senate joint resolution affirming and approving the policy of the American government for refusal to recognize the transfer of any territory in the Western Hemisphere from one foreign power to another.

Issuance of a proclamation declaring the existence of a state of war between Germany and Italy on the one hand and Yugoslavia on the other, because the Axis

1 Dead, 4 Hurt In N. J. Powder Plant Blast

BELVIDERE, N. J., April 11 (AP)—An explosion in the cotton dehydration house of Hercules Powder Co.'s new smokeless powder plant here today caused one death and injured four other employees.

Charles Haycock, 21, of Belvidere, died in a hospital at Phillipsburg, N. J., nearly two hours after the blast.

Property damage was slight.

10 Hurt in Alabama Iron Plant Explosion

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11 (AP)—One of the boilers at a Woodward Iron Co., blast furnace was shattered today in an explosion heard for ten miles. First reports said at least ten persons were seriously injured.

A Birmingham police radio car told headquarters here injured being removed from the plant "are so black from burns you can't tell whether they are whites or Negroes."

TROOPERS ON MERRY CHASE PROVE DOWD REPORT FALSE

Three small boys who meant well started state troopers on a merry chase today in Hampshire county—after a man in a New York automobile whom the youngsters thought they recognized from circulars as the fugitive ex-Sheriff John F. Dowd of Boston.

The boys, playing near James L. Campbell's filling station in East-hampton when they saw the man in the car, notified Police Chief James L. Campbell, and he notified state police headquarters here.

Troopers scurried out over the highways in search of the car, whose number the boys had furnished.

But when Campbell was questioned at his filling station, he said he did not believe the man to be Dowd, as he thought he would have recognized him from the $2500-reward circular hanging in his office.

And when Campbell said there was a shepherd dog in the car, as well as a woman who might have been the driver's wife, and a girl young enough to have been their daughter, police said he probably was right.

Campbell said that the man had bought seven gallons of gas and had alighted to ask that the windshield be cleaned and the oil checked in the expensive car.

Holdup Pair Ruin Easter For 3 Sisters

In the hallway of a Columbus ave., South End, house a man and woman broke the hearts of three sisters today, for the girls will have nothing new to wear Easter Sunday.

Unless, of course, the man and woman return the money they stole—return it in the appreciation of how bitterly disappointed young girls can be without something new for Easter.

It was only a matter of $60 involved, but John Packnotte had laid it aside for his family, that Easter things might be bought.

As he turned in at the doorway in the 200-block of Columbus ave., a car drew up. A man and woman alighted, and followed Packnotte into the hallway. There they roughed him up, took the $60 and fled.

Upstairs the eldest of Packnotte's three daughters, Ann, 19, heard the commotion and looked out a window to see the man and woman drive away. One of her younger sisters is 15, the other 13.

Thread Leads To Conviction In Hit-Run Case

Largely on the basis of a short piece of thread, Gerard E. Souliere, 19, of Orleans, Vt., was convicted on a hit and run driving charge today in Newton court by Judge David Nagle.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge, but a two months' suspended sentence in the house of correction was imposed by the court. On a charge of driving without a license Souliere pleaded guilty and was fined $20.

The thread, according to testimony of a state police chemist and a wool expert, matched the material of the victim's coat. Newton police testified it was found on the door of Souliere's car.

In their charge police said that Feb. 23 a car driven by Souliere seriously injured John H. Berndtson, 78, as he crossed Waltham st. on his way to his Harding at. West Newton, home.

Souliere was stopped on the Needham line, after a description of the hit-run car was furnished by Stanley E. Fern, of Newton, who saw the accident.

Churchills, Winants Tour Bomb Raid Areas

SWANSEA, Wales, April 11 (AP)—Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill, accompanied by the United States ambassador to Britain and Washington's special defense representative, John G. Winant, and William A. Harriman, made a flying visit today to raid-damaged areas of this Welsh port.

First Lady Will Fly From Hub To See Jim Wed

Busy Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's four-day coast-to-coast schedule which opens tomorrow at Boston revealed today that the marriage of her eldest son, James, to Nurse Romelle Theresa Schneider probably will take place Monday at Los Angeles.

If the four-day schedule of the President's much-traveled wife is Jimmy's guide for the wedding day, it shows that she will arrive in Los Angeles Sunday morning and will leave there again some time Monday.

And Jimmy has said his mother will be present at the much publicized wedding.

The First Lady will represent the Presidential family tomorrow at the marriage of her niece, Eleanor Roosevelt, to Edward P. Elliott at Dedham.

HOPS FROM BOSTON

Then she will board a plane in Boston for New York, and from there is routed by United Air Lines to the coast, arriving at Los Angeles Easter morning.

United Air Lines has a reservation for her departure from there on Monday, on a flight through to Washington, D. C.

To complete the four-day coast-to-coast schedule, she has a lecture engagement in Charlotte, N. C., on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Roosevelt, according to press dispatches, would not comment on what she and the President would give their eldest son as a wedding present.

When they obtained their marriage license here, Jimmy gave his age as 33. Miss Schneider stated she was 25.

Roosevelt said it had not been decided who would officiate. The ceremony will be performed either at the home of Miss Schneider's mother, Mrs. Agnes Schneider, or at that of a friend.

He and his bride will make their home in San Diego.

ENGAGED "LONG TIME"

Roosevelt first met Miss Schneider in the Rochester Hospital, where he went for a stomach operation. He said today they have been engaged "for a long time."

She accompanied him to California where he came to recuperate. She has remained near him. Her sister, Phyllis, has been Roosevelt's private secretary since she entered

Good Friday Services Draw All Creeds to Hub Churches

Thousands of the faithful entered Catholic and Protestant churches of Greater Boston today to mourn from noon to 3 p. m. the crucifixion of Christ on the Cross of Calvary.

Special services for Good Friday have been arranged in all churches as the solemn and penitential season of Lent draws nearer its close at noon tomorrow amid preparation for the joyous observances of the Resurrection on Easter Sunday morning.

Only a single service will be held in Catholic churches this morning with tabernacles open and altars stripped of all adornment. All the solemnity and tradition of the church will mark services during the hours commemorating the crucifixion. Chanting of the "Tenebrae" and sermons on the passion will be held in the evening.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison ave., South End, the Rev. Terrence L. Connolly, S. J., a member of the faculty of the Boston College Graduate School, will deliver the discourse during the three-hour service and prayers will be read by the Rev. Edward J. Sullivan, S. J.

THREE-HOUR SERVICE

The three-hour service at St. Mary's Church in the North End will be conducted by the Rev. Leo O'Keefe, S. J., and a meditation on the five sorrowful mysteries will be held at St. Stephen's Church, Hanover st., from 2 to 5 p. m., followed by the stations of the cross.

At Protestant churches special preachers will present the seven last words of Christ at services in downtown and some outlying churches.

Dean Edwin J. van Etten will conduct the service at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, starting at noon and in the evening at 8 o'clock the Cathedral choir will sing "The Passion of Our Lord According to St. Mark."

40-VOICE GLEE CLUB

Another music service will start at 7:30 p. m. at Tremont Temple Baptist Church with 40 voices of the Men's Glee Club of Wheaton College, Illinois, rendering a program under the direction of Prof. H. William Nordin. The pastor, Dr. C. Gordon Brown, will conduct the annual communion service.

Noonday services at King's Chapel will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Falfrey Perkins and a vesper service has been arranged for 5 p. m. Other noonday services were arranged for the Old South Meeting House and the Park Street Church. A union service by Back Bay churches has been planned for 3 p. m. at the Arlington Street Church with a sermon by Dr. Ashley Day Leavitt of the Harvard Congregational Church, Brookline.

Good Friday Just a Work Day For British

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Good Friday was just another work day for Britain, which decreed to keep the wheels of war effort spinning at top speed.

Banks and the stock exchange were open and a great majority of shops were doing business.

CITY HALL CLOSES TODAY

Boston City Hall will be closed from noon to 3 p. m. today to permit city employees to attend Good Friday services. Skeleton staffs will run municipal departments from 3 to 5 p. m. today and from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. tomorrow.

WAR ASIDE, ITALIANS KEEP HOLY DAY

ROME, April 11 (AP)—Italians laid aside the cares of war today to enter into the customary mourning for the crucifixion of Christ, which every year stills the busy life of Rome on Good Friday.

With few pilgrims in the center of Catholicism this year, however, the faithful who climbed the famed holy stairs of St. John Lateran, kneeling to pray on each step, were less numerous than usual.

From Sicily, now a base for Italian and German war operations in the Mediterranean, reports were lacking concerning the traditional Good Friday pageants because of communications restrictions.

In the Vatican, Pope Pius XII and the cardinals attended a mass in the Sistine Chapel. After the mass, celebrated by Raffaello Cardinal Rossi, the Pontiff, clad in red and white mitre and purple stole, was carried to the Pauline Chapel where he stopped out of his slippers, walked to the crucifix and performed the act of adoration.

Then the Pope and cardinals placed personal offerings of money to the church on a tray, the Pontiff's gift in a red velvet purse.

Later the Pontiff carried the Blessed Sacrament back to the Sistine Chapel, from which he had removed it yesterday as a sign of the church's mourning.

Bells of Rome's 420 churches were still today. Tonight theaters and few other public places of entertainment permitted in the blacked out city will remain closed.

Hub Jews Begin Passover Feast

With the setting of the sun tonight, Greater Boston Jewry will begin celebration of the feast of Passover, oldest festival in the Hebrew calendar and commemorating redemption of the Jewish people from slavery in Egypt.

Principal observances of the feast will be in the homes, where the first night Seder services will be held, but brief services have been arranged at temples and synagogues on the eve and morning of the first and last days of the holiday.

Orthodox Jews observe the festival for eight days and reform Jews for seven, with prayer and family reunions, and matzos or unleavened bread is substituted as a symbol of the hardships undergone by the Israelites in Egypt.

Passover feasting for thousands of Jewish soldiers, sailors and marines begin today and will last through Sunday evening, it was announced by Samuel Rivkind, president of the Jewish Welfare Board of New England.

TRUCK, CARGO BURNED

PLAINVILLE, April 11—Fire destroyed a large Boston bound truck and contents on the Boston-Providence turnpike here today. The vehicle was carrying $6000 worth of linen and plaster board to the U. S. Gypsum Co. plant in Boston. Friction from a flat tire was given as the cause.

Spring Signs Out Until Undertaker Cuts His Whiskers

VALHALLA, S. C., April 11 (AP)—The calendar and the birds say it is spring, but residents of this town are waiting for a better sign. John Ansel hasn't shaved yet.

The 63-year-old undertaker allows his whiskers to grow with the first rush of cold weather and they continue growing, without benefit of a razor, until warm weather comes.

They are getting up a pool here and the one predicting the nearest date when Ansel's beard comes off wins the bet. And everyone will know then that spring is here in dead earnest.

El Trustees Demand Charges Showdown

With the El trustees themselves demanding a showdown, Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell today began a study of allegations by the Boston Finance Commission that excessive charges have been levied against the El riders under public control.

Gov. Saltonstall, seeking to determine whether the state could or should take action as suggested for an accounting, turned the original Finance Commission report as well as the trustees' answer to the charges over to the attorney-general.

A three-point study was requested by the governor, who sought to determine:

"Whether or not the commonwealth should take action as suggested for accounting;

"If the commonwealth is the proper one to take such action, or whether this action should be brought by the City of Boston, which is the most substantial deficit contributor;

"Whether or not the Governor and council may properly ask an opinion of the Justices as to their certification of the deficit for the year ending March 31, 1941. This deficit will shortly be certified to them for approval."

Serving as spokesman for his associates on the board of trustees, Chairman Edward E. Whiting advised the chief executive that the report alleging overcharges of $20,000,000 was "based upon certain fundamental misconceptions and premises."

Whiting further wrote: "It is in the public interest that the loose and unsubstantiated charges heretofore made concerning public operation be brought out into the open before some proper judicial tribunal and proved or disproved once and for all."

In their letter of reply, the public trustees said Finance Commission investigators deliberately ignored "detailed and comprehensive depreciation schedules" upon which the annual depreciation charges were based and the fact that the amount of the charges was repeatedly approved by legislative committees and the Dept. of Public Utilities. The trustees' letter adds:

INVESTIGATORS BLAMED
"The inability of the investigators for the Finance Commission to recognize that there is no connection between the amounts of property retired and charged off during any particular year and the charge made during that same year for current depreciation accounts for $160,000 of the alleged overcharge."

"Another item of overcharge set forth by the investigators for the Finance Commission is arrived at by taking all of the track repair work done during the period of public control and making the arbitrary assumption that one dollar a foot would be a fair charge for repairing track and any cost incurred over and above that amount should have been charged to the capital account."

"By following this reasoning they say there has been an overcharge of $2,997,832. The simple answer to this allegation is that such procedure is not authorized and would not be permitted by law or under the regulations of the Department of Public Utilities which supervises the accounting of the Elevated road."

2D TWIN FOLLOWS 1ST BY 2 DAYS

DANVILLE, Ill., April 11 (INS)—A second twin daughter was born two days after the first to Mr. and Mrs. John Read of Cayuga, Ind. The proud parents today claimed some sort of record for the twin mites of femininity.

Not only were they born two days apart, but one of them is a native of Indiana, the other of Illinois; an Indiana physician officiated in the first case, an Illinois physician in the second.

The first twin was born Tuesday at the Read home in Cayuga, 18 miles south of Danville. Neither the mother nor the doctor had any intimation there was to be another addition to the Read family until yesterday. They had assumed everything was over.

Then Mrs. Read, voicing a surprised "Oh-oh," received unmistakable indications that her job was only half completed. She and the first born were rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Danville, where a Danville physician ushered No. 2 into the world.

Mother and twin daughters were reported "doing nicely" today.

War Games Reveal Perils Facing N. E.

Boston lightship was sunk by a torpedo today and a tanker, damaged by shellfire from a submarine in Cape Cod bay, limped into Boston Harbor.

Again, of course, all that was make-believe, for the Army today moved into the second day of its two-day war game program in which New England's rich manufacturing region is being defended from attacks by a mythical enemy. Actually, no troops moved and no guns were fired; the program is all designed to test Army communications and Army brains.

DISASTROUS EVENTS

Other disastrous make-believe events that occurred today, according to the war theorists, were: The raining of incendiary bombs on the railroad station at Bridgton, Me., and on shipyards in Portland and Bristol, R. I.

The dropping of parachute troops (who were "destroyed") on a golf course near the naval base at Newport, R. I.

The unloading of flares all along the tortuous New England coastline by enemy aircraft.

The attempt by saboteurs to blow up the bridge over the Thames river at New London and the sighting of enemy submarines along the coast.

CLIMAX OF GAMES

Under the watchful eyes of Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding the First Army, climax of the games was to come this afternoon when an enemy fleet of an estimated two heavy cruisers, five light cruisers, two aircraft carriers and a train of supply ships and submarines was scheduled to try to land invasion troops.

Preparations were being made by defense forces to destroy or capture them.

At the Army Base in South Boston, where Gen. Drum and his aides were toiling over the complicated charts, it was inferred that the coast defenses have been stepped up, not on paper, but actually and that this nation would hold its own in event of invasion.

ANSWER SECRET

However, only Gen. Drum and his men, and the high command at Washington, may know the final official answer, for considerable secrecy has marked the maneuvers, which are entirely on paper.

Not even the No. 1 officer of the First Corps area, Gen. James A. Woodruff, knew in advance what the tactical problems would be. Yesterday Gen. Drum flew here from New York with the problems in his brief-case and immediately sent out orders which sent the surprise invasion and attack in motion.

EASTER LEAVE—Soldiers from Camp Edwards arrive at South Station en route to their homes today . . . for Easter leave. And everyone wears a smile.

Hay Off Truck Fells Woman

Three bales of hay toppled from a truck today and knocked down Mrs. Margaret Kilroy, 24, of Oscar st., Roxbury, on Tremont st. at Roxbury Crossing.

At City Hospital, Mrs. Kilroy was treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

The woman was waiting for a bus underneath the railroad bridge when the bales on top of the truck were knocked off, police said.

The truck was operated by George Evans of North Main st., Natick, according to police.

Marshfield Police Chief Ouster Asked by Dewing

Dist. Atty. Dewing of Norfolk and Plymouth Counties, announced today that "for the protection of the people of Marshfield" he had advised the selectmen to proceed forthwith with the removal of the Chief of Police William Pratt.

Dewing said for several months he had been receiving complaints about Pratt, and that he had turned them over to the board of selectmen for action.

"However, about a month ago a substantial property owner in Abington who pastures cattle in Marshfield told me a story that seemed fantastic," Dewing said.

STORY OF A COW

"The story involved the shooting of a cow, the cutting up of it and the removal of the beef to the police station, where the chief and his friends took the meat home attempting to notify the owner of what had happened."

The story also involved a calf, Dewing said.

I ordered State Police Lieuts. Albert Brouillard and George Grady to investigate, and their report was so startling I felt it necessary for the protection of the people of Marshfield to appear before the selectmen and advise them to proceed with the removal of the chief," Dewing said.

He explained that he talked to the chief and two of his friends and that the chief had admitted being involved in the episode.

CAR PLATE EPISODE

Pratt also admitted defacing a motor vehicle plate and permitting its use in the town in defiance of law, Dewing explained.

The chief had seven years service in the United States Army and three years with the Texas Rangers before he joined the Massachusetts State Police Patrol.

In June, 1927, as a member of the state police, he was injured and was in the hospital for many months. In 1929 he was made chief of police of Barnstable and served there until 1936, when he resigned after a row with Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin.

From Barnstable he went to Marshfield.

Calls Brother Home Before Shooting Self

Discovered by his brother, who responded to a phone call to see him "right away," Franklin T. Murray, 61, of Brainard rd., Allston, died today in St. Elizabeth's Hospital from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head.

Murray's brother, Charles A., of Sunnybrook rd., Watertown, said he found his brother lying in the bathroom of his home with a bullet wound in the right temple and an automatic pistol beside him. The victim was an insurance adjuster.

ELBRIDGE GERRY DIES

Elbridge F. Gerry, 90, original owner of the Gerry Cider Mill, established in Lynnfield in 1872, died today at his home in Reading.

DRAFT BOARD BLUSHES, WIFE IS RELIEVED

His wife won't have to join the army after all, John B. Miller of Century st., West Medford, learned with a sigh of relief today.

And draft officials blushed through their apologies as they read a dainty feminine note asking if the questionnaire they sent Mrs. Miller meant she had to sign up as a private in the draft army.

It happened this way: The Melrose draft board in checking registered men against the street lists came on the name of Walton M. Miller and failed to find it on the selective service lists. The name was checked to a new address and a letter sent demanding to know if Walton M. Miller wanted to go to jail for failing to register, which was in prospect unless a very good alibi was forthcoming.

The alibi proved excellent, for Walton is the wife of John Miller and a nurse at Cambridge Hospital. She explained that her parents had hoped for a son and gave her the name they had planned for a male arrival. Her husband calls her "Georgia," she added.

Single Point Delays Ford Strike Peace

DETROIT, April 11 (AP)—One lone point of difference to-day delayed an agreement to end the 10-day Ford Motor Co. strike and permit some 200,000 workers to return to their jobs.

The Ford Company's acceptance of a settlement proposal by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan was conditioned on a postponement of a National Labor Relations Board hearing scheduled for Monday.

Van Wagoner, whose three-point program received approval, with modifications, from the company and was accepted by the striking United Automobile Workers, emerged wearily at 3 a. m. from a three-hour conference with union officials and said:

"We are making progress on the one remaining point necessary to settle the strike. Conferences will be resumed Friday morning."

Informed sources said this point was the Ford Co.'s insistence that any NLRB hearings relating to Ford's Rouge plant be deferred until after an employee election ordered by the board.

UAW-CIO leaders have indicated they counted on Monday's hearing as a sounding board to air grievances against the company and possibly to influence Ford workers to vote for the CIO when the election is held in the world's largest industrial unit—the Rouge plant employing 85,000 workers.

The hearing has no connection, otherwise, with the NLRB election or the immediate causes of the present strike. It concerns union charges of unfair labor practices and discriminatory discharge of several hundred union members.

Frank H. Bowen, NLRB regional director here whose office the Ford Co. has charged contains Communist sympathizers, said last night he saw "no apparent reason for further delay" in the case.

VOTE FOR PLAN

Under normal NLRB procedure, it was reported, the hearing would be postponed if both sides consented.

An estimated 16,000 unionists who crowded the stadium fair grounds last night voiced approval of Van Wagoner's settlement plan but referred the Ford modifications of it to the UAW-CIO negotiators, who then entered a midnight conference with the governor.

Michael F. Widman, Jr., head of the union's Ford organizing drive, told the UAW-CIO members:

"Get back on the picket lines. The strike isn't over yet."

The governor's settlement plan, which had the support of Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey, called for return of all employees without discrimination, re-establishment of grievance procedure used before the strike, and co-operation of both sides in expediting the NLRB election.

DEWEY TO LEAVE

Dewey said this morning he expected to leave the city tonight, and would spend next week on labor negotiations in the steel industry. Some observers took this move to indicate he expected a Ford settlement today.

Possibility that the Ford Co.'s petition for a federal injunction against CIO pickets may be dismissed was seen in the comment of L. A. Capizzi, Ford counsel, that if the strike is settled "there will be no need for an injunction."

The Ford Co. has presented a number of witnesses at a hearing before U. S. District Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, and yesterday reported that two of them were beaten outside the Federal building here.

Coal Strike Nears Showdown

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—After a brief joint session, operator and miner negotiators working on a new contract for the Appalachian soft coal industry went into separate meetings today without comment as to the significance of the move.

Previously, operators from the Southern fields had held a separate caucus prior to the joint conference. Spokesmen for both sides were silent.

Dr. John R. Steelman, federal conciliator, said the negotiations were "rapidly approaching a critical moment."

He indicated the discussions would not be continued past this week-end and that there was a possibility of an agreement which, at least, would reopen "appreciable" portion of the defense-vital bituminous production.

It has been exactly a month since the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) first presented their demands to the operators. Ninety per cent of the nation's soft coal production has been shut down 11 days pending the negotiations.

FREIGHTER BURNS

NEW YORK, April 11 (INS)—Fire today swept the forward hold of the Southern Pacific-Morgan Line freighter El Mundo as it was being unloaded at its North River pier.

CIO STRIKE THREAT SENT GEN. MOTORS

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)

The Labor Department received notice today of a threatened CIO Auto Workers strike in the plants of the General Motors Corp., and immediately ordered Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey into action to avert a work stoppage.

A telegram from the corporation advised the department that the union served notice yesterday it intended to take strike action if current negotiations for a new working contract did not result in an agreement by April 20. Large defense orders are involved. Dewey is now working for a settlement of the CIO Union's strike at the Ford Motor Co.

Notice of the threatened strike, a Labor Department official said, was received in a telegram signed by B. D. Kunkle of the General Motors Corp.

One official said the Kunkle telegram explained that the company-union negotiations were deadlocked "on certain issues."

The union is reported to be seeking a wage increase. On the basis of a labor board election held last year, the union is the exclusive bargaining agent for the company's 130,000 workers.

Negotiations between the union and the company on contract revisions began March 11.

"We hope that these negotiations can be pushed through to a conclusion at the earliest date possible and we are attempting to do our part to that end," said a statement issued by the corporation.

Demands as previously announced by the union, include:

A general wage increase of 10 cents an hour; 80 hours vacation pay instead of the present 40; a shop steward system to handle grievances; "adequate compensation" for drafted workers; and additional authority for the impartial umpire to rule on issues on which no agreement can be reached.

10 Cents an Hour Raise Asked of Bethlehem

PITTSBURGH, April 11 (AP)—The CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee announced today it had submitted formal demands for a 10-cent hourly wage increase covering approximately 100,000 workers in plants of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Union headquarters here were notified of the nation-wide drive for higher wages in Bethlehem plants by John Riffe, executive director of the SWOC's campaign in the corporation mills.

Woman, 64, Held as Thief

A matronly-appearing woman of 64, who described herself as married and a housekeeper, appeared in the lineup at Boston police headquarters today.

"This woman has a police record that stretches from 1899 to 1941," announced Lieut. James V. Crowley. "That's 43 years."

The woman was charged with stealing money from the purse of a woman customer in a downtown store.

"I stole nothing," the elderly woman said plainly. "But I'd like to say this: an open pocket-book on a person's arm is likely to tempt some persons."

"Aren't you a pickpocket?" asked Lieut. Crowley.

"I haven't picked a pocket in years," the woman said. She was held for municipal court.

French Crew Faces Girl Attack Quiz

All officers of the S. S. Normandie face a possible quizzing in New York court in connection with an alleged attack on a former Lowell school teacher aboard the French luxury liner.

So it was indicated today by counsel for Miss Anna Eleanor Jablonski, 21, who has brought suit for $200,000 damages against the steward and the French line.

The attorney said he will go into Supreme Court in New York next Monday to ask for immediate examination of officers and the log of the vessel for Aug. 30, 1938, urging haste because the ship has steam up and is preparing to sail under secret orders.

Miss Jablonski charges she was making a 50-cent tour of the ship, and that the steward, Rene Bovan, was acting as her guide. He lured her into the crew quarters, carried her to a berth, gagged her, ripped off her clothing and attempted to attack her, she charged.

She managed to fight him off, the attractive girl further stated.

As a result of her experience, she alleges, she was forced to give up her position in the Lowell schools.

It is Miss Jablonski's contention that the French Line is responsible in her action, because Bovan was an employee. The line has countered with a denial that the steward was on duty under its direction that day, because visitors were admitted under the Seamen's Welfare Committee, a charitable organization. This, the company contends, relieves the line of responsibility.

Bovan was arrested on Miss Jablonski's charge in September, 1938, and held in $2500 bail for special sessions following his arraignment. She is a graduate of Teachers' College, in Lowell.

AT LINEUP—Helen Sinclair of Malden, victim in finance company holdup, leaves police lineup today after asserting a suspect "looked familiar." In holdup, James W. Toohey was slain.

Truck Crash Turns Massachusetts Ave Into Milky Way

Gallons of milk flowed on Massachusetts ave., Back Bay, today when a milk truck skidded and crashed into the front of the Red Iron Grill, near the Boylston st. intersection.

Windows and sections of the wall were smashed, but the driver, listed by police as Leon Cooke, 25, of Burnet st., Jamaica Plain, was thrown clear. He refused medical treatment.

Slaying Suspect Not Identified

Failing to obtain identification today of a man they picked up for questioning in the holdup slaying of James W. Toohey on June 4 in the downtown office of the Household Finance Co., Boston police turned him and another man over to Revere authorities.

They were named in Revere warrants charging breaking and entering in the night and armed robbery as: Allen Locke, 32, and John W. Saul, 27, both of Mystic st., Charlestown.

The pair were held when one was alleged to be carrying a watch alleged to have been taken from Mr. and Mrs. Max Litman when they were held up in their Point of Pines home in Revere and robbed of money and jewels in the value of $400 by four gunmen.

Mrs. Litman identified Locke and Saul as two of the armed gunmen. In today's lineup W. G. Tibbets of Newton, Catherine Cummings and Helen Sinclair, both of Malden, all employees of the finance company, view the suspect. All they could say was that the man "looked familiar."

NO!---Is the United States Going to War?---YES!

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—Is the United States going to enter the second world war in a military sense within the near future?

"No," is the answer today of close advisers to President Roosevelt.

"Yes," is the answer of Congress, taken from a cross-section of opinion on Capitol Hill.

The President's advisers picture him as determined to keep the United States out of active warfare although committed fully to using every other effort of the United States to help Britain defeat Hitler. They say they are convinced that this is the President's confirmed policy, because:

1—Mr. Roosevelt has publicly proclaimed he will keep the United States at peace.

2—Mr. Roosevelt has advised his closest friends in private talks that he is opposed to the United States becoming engaged in active warfare.

3—The subject of the United States becoming involved in the war in a military sense has never been discussed at a cabinet session or even the most indirect manner.

4—They feel the President desires to keep the United States from repetition of the futile military losses of the first World War in order to present the strongest possible military front to the world to face the expected hazards of the post-war era to come.

WAR FEELING

As opposed to this sentiment among the President's closest advisers, there is a distinct and general feeling on Capitol Hill that United States involvement in the war is inevitable. There are several things that provoke this sentiment, one of the most prevalent and significant being a "fear" that the President intends to push the nation into the war. This "fear" is widespread and those who express it have many divergent reasons for doing so.

One prominent Democrat expressed the "fear" in these terms: "We are in the hands of the President. We have given him so much power he can plunge us into the war any time he chooses. And I am afraid that is exactly what he is going to do."

Asked why he felt such a "fear," the Democrat replied: "Because the President will be unable to resist British pressure to get us actively into the war."

A more specific reason, given by many legislators for their "fear" of the United States getting into the war, is the ever-nearing prospect of the use of United States naval vessels to convoy merchantmen to England.

Many Democrats and a mass of Republicans believe the President will order convoys in the very near future and that the first combat between an American corvet and a German submarine or long-range bomber will result in war.

CONVOY TALK

There are some Capitol Hill authorities who do not expect war to result from the use of United States convoys. This group, in a minority, either say the President will not use convoys in the accepted sense or that the convoys will be used only in the western half of the Atlantic where they will be free from German raiders—who will wait for the merchantmen to reach the areas under British patrol before attacking them.

And there are some who believe that a convoy battle will not result in war. These few say that Germany will carry on its blockade of England, sink merchantmen, attack even United States warships if the opportunity should offer, but always without declaring war on the United States. And these few add that they cannot see how the President can ask Congress to declare war on Germany if an American destroyer is sunk by a German U-boat if he invites the attack by sending the destroyer into the war zone.

NO TROOPS ABOARD

A few legislators argue that the United States will not get into the war in a military sense because it cannot. They refer to the use of troops, arguing that the United States, even if at war with Germany, cannot land troops where they would be able to fight German troops—unless a suicidal effort were made to invade France with losses that no known military authority now recommends.

These few see the United States, if at war with Germany, sending airmen and aviation ground crews to England or even to the Mediterranean to help Britain's RAF. They also see United States warships helping to blockade Germany and its conquered territory and helping to ruin the German blockade of the British Isles but they cannot envision use of troops abroad.

The main point about this talk of United States getting into the war is that it is based on rumor, opinion and fear, rather than on any specific plan or declaration of the President. And the people closest to the President say he intends to keep the nation at peace.

powers "wantonly" attacked that Balkan kingdom.

Now that British troops have captured the Red Sea port of Massawa, the important coastal point held by the Italians in East Africa, the President was understood to feel that it would be perfectly justifiable for the American government to declare the Gulf of Aden and Red Sea no longer a danger zone to American shipping.

In making his announcement, the President also declared specifically that the Suez Canal was not in any American declared combat zone, and that therefore American shipping could convey materials destined for a neutral—such as Egypt—up to the canal.

The Chief Executive told his press conference that his action had taken the stopper out of the Red Sea route.

His attention was called to the neutrality act provision which prohibits delivery of goods to a neutral for transshipment to a belligerent, and he was asked whether that question was going to be explored in connection with reopening of the circuitous trade route. Mr. Roosevelt replied that he did not think so—that one did not buy headlines unless it was absolutely necessary.

Effect of the President's action will be to enable shipment of American supplies much needed by the Allies around the African Cape of Good Hope and up into Egypt.

Mr. Roosevelt also signed a proclamation recognizing that a state of war exists between Germany and Italy on the one hand and Yugoslavia on the other.

HUNGARIANS MARCH INTO YUGOSLAVIA

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 11 (AP)—The Hungarian army has marched into Yugoslavia to reclaim territory lost in the World War.

An army report said Magyar troops had crossed the Trianon frontier between the Danube and Tisa rivers, as well as in the triangle in Baranya between the Danube and the Drava rivers.

The Hungarian nation was informed of this step, taken yesterday, with publication in morning papers today of a proclamation of Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy.

INDEPENDENT STATE

The proclamation said formation of an independent Croatian state in the north left Yugoslavia "dissolved into several parts."

The act left Hungary the "duty to take again in our own hands the care for Hungarians living in the territories stolen from us," it said.

Under the treaty of Trianon in 1920 Hungary lost perhaps 500,000 of her Magyar population to Yugoslavia in the Banat, Baianya and Medjumurje regions.

"This was a national duty which we had to fulfill without delay," Horthy's proclamation continued, "therefore I gave today (Thursday) the order to my soldiers to defend Hungarians living in the southern territories from the devastation of anarchy."

"The action of my soldiers was not directed against the Serb people. We have no conflict with them and wish to live in peace with them."

Admiral Horthy congratulated the Croat people on formation of their independent nation and asserted Hungary "will respect it for all time."

"We have lived together with the Croats for a thousand years," his proclamation said. "Through bad times and good we have always respected and helped each other and we wish the noble nation of Croats to find a new independent state of prosperity and happiness."

ANARCHY REPORTED

Morning newspapers published long reports of anarchy in the disputed quarter of Yugoslavia, and asserted Hungarian and German-populated villages had been devastated by "Yugoslav gangster bands."

Under the 1920 treaty of Trianon, Hungary lost Transylvania to Rumania, Slovakia and Carpatho-Ruthenia to Czechoslovakia (since mostly recovered); also Croatia and Slavonia to Yugoslavia.

The territory lost to Yugoslavia was 63,851 square kilometers (about 24,653 square miles) with a population of approximately 4,150,000.

Of this, the new Croat state claims 42,541 square kilometers (16,426 square miles) and 2,621,000 population.

Ex-Marlboro Solicitor Freed on Parole

John J. Ginnett, former Marlboro city solicitor, was paroled from East Cambridge jail before expiration of his sentence on bribery charges because of ill health, Middlesex County commissioners indicated today.

After serving less than four months of concurrent sentences of six months each on charges in connection with municipal job sales in Marlboro, the former official was paroled last Friday in a second attempt to win freedom.

Turks Expect to Hold As Non-Belligerents

LONDON, April 11 (INS)—Within the scope of her treaties with Great Britain and Greece, Turkey has decided to maintain her position of non-belligerence, the newspaper Vakif said today, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Ankara.

British Army at Grips With Nazis in Balkans

ATHENS, April 11 (AP)—British expeditionary troops have clashed with Hitler's invaders for the first time in northern Greece, it was officially announced today, and the Battle of Greece apparently is developing.

Striking toward the right wing anchor of the British-Greek main defense line, in the vicinity of fabled Mount Olympus, the Germans were reported to have captured Yaniza, 48 miles north of the Olympus range.

Other Nazi columns were reported trying to push through the Bitolj (Monastir) pass, in southwestern Yugoslavia, threatening the British left wing in a drive toward Florina, northern Greece.

Headquarters of the British Expeditionary Force reported stiffening resistance against the Germans in southern Yugoslavia where Nazi armored columns were said to be rolling southward from Eriplep, Yugoslavia, toward Florina.

FOUGHT VALIANTLY

Refugees arriving from Yugoslavia said the Slav forces fought valiantly, inflicting terrific losses on the invaders and suffering heavy casualties themselves, but that they had been unprepared for the violent Nazi attack in the Struma and Vardar river valleys.

They quoted Yugoslav generals as attributing the defeat mainly to a breakdown in communications, which left many units struggling in the dark, without knowledge of the movements of other units.

A terse communique by the British Expeditionary Force announced that British troops established contact with the Germans yesterday.

Presumably this contact was developing into a major engagement at Bitolj (Monastir) Gap, in Yugoslavia, just east of the junction of the Albanian-Greek-Yugoslav frontiers.

The BEF communique said simply: "German forces in northern Greece came into contact with British and Imperial troops on April 10."

A British Royal Air Force communique said that British bombers and fighters yesterday attacked an enemy motor transport column near Bitolj, which is in southwestern Yugoslavia, about seven miles above the Greek frontier, while "fighter" machine-gunned trucks and troops on Bitolj airdrome, causing many casualties."

Nazis Ban Foreigners Leaving French Zone

VICHY, France, April 11 (AP)—Travelers from Paris reported today that the Germans are refusing permission to all foreigners to leave the occupied zone of France. The order was said to apply equally to the demarcation line and to foreign frontiers for an unspecified period. More than 1000 Americans are estimated to be in the zone.

Germans had reached the angle of the Greek-Yugoslav-Albanian frontier, in a drive toward the northern Greek town of Florina.

RAF BOMBS TRANSPORT

An RAF communique said British warplanes had bombed and machine-gunned a motor transport column near Bitola, in southwest Yugoslavia, seven miles above the Greek frontier.

"Armored columns on the road between Florina and Pirlap were bombed successfully from a low altitude," the RAF said.

Florina is 20 miles south of Bitola. Pirlap is 25 miles northeast of Bitola.

Two Nazi salients thus have been driven across Yugoslavia, one across the southern Yugoslav-Greek frontier and the other across Yugoslavia's 100-mile "waist" through captured Skopje, at the head of the Vardar river valley.

Nazi quarters in Berlin, however, acknowledged that fierce fighting still was in progress on the southern Yugoslav front, declaring:

"The Serb army is being systematically wiped up or even blotted out. But the pity is that among troops fighting hardest are Croat formations whom the Serbs wisely took out of Croatia and put on southern front."

Both are Yugoslav states, Serbia in the south and Croatia in the north.

An independent state of Croatia was proclaimed yesterday, and the new premier Gen. Slavko Kvaternik issued a command:

"I order every Croat regiment to report to Zagreb (the capital of Croatia) to take the oath of allegiance."

NEW NAZI LINK

The new Croatian state established at Zagreb emerged as a new link in Adolf Hitler's European order while Hungarian troops moved over the border to occupy territory Hungary lost in the World War.

The British said nine German air raiders were shot down in nocturnal attacks on Coventry, Birmingham, London and other sections of England. They said considerable damage was done in the West Midlands, where heavy casualties were feared.

The RAF, meanwhile, struck at the Ruhr valley and the German naval base at Brest. The Germans said the attacks on western Germany were light.

U. S. TO USE GREENLAND AS BRITISH AID BASE

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 11—The United States government will use Greenland as an advance base for American aid to Great Britain, it was learned today.

Authoritative quarters disclosed that under a broad interpretation of the agreement signed with the Danish minister in Washington, the United States government will have the right to use the bases acquired in Greenland, not only as a stepping stone for the shipment of vital war supplies to Great Britain, but also for the purpose of refueling British warships and naval patrol planes operating in the North Atlantic.

First step in the use of Greenland as an advance base for aid to Britain is likely to be as a stop-over for warplanes, it was said. As soon as American armed forces take over in Greenland and adequate air fields are developed, the United States will start flying warplanes to Britain via Greenland and Iceland.

It is hoped it will be possible to fly pursuit planes via Greenland within the next few months. The British have been flying bombers straight across the North Atlantic from Newfoundland to Scotland, but that distance has been too long for pursuit planes. With the lifting of the fog in the North Atlantic, it is hoped to fly the pursuit planes from Newfoundland to Greenland and thence to Iceland and Scotland. American flyers may be used to pilot the warplanes not only to Greenland but as far as Iceland in order to avoid making Greenland appear as a British rather than an American base.

Attention was called to the fact the President has never declared Iceland in the combat zone and therefore not only could American planes be flown there but American ships could carry supplies to that island. Informed quarters said it was possible that American warships would, if necessary, be used to convoy American supply ships as far as Greenland.

Henry Ford, II, Gets Naval Ensign's Post

DETROIT, April 11 (AP)—An ensign's commission in the United States Naval Reserve has been given Henry Ford II, Lieut.-Comm. E. S. Pettyjohn, of Selective Service headquarters in Lansing, announced here. Young Ford, 23-year-old son of Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., had been placed, tentatively, in Class 1 by his local draft board. He is married and has a daughter, born last week.

RAF CLAIMS HEAVY GERMAN AIR LOSSES IN LIBYAN CLASH

CAIRO, Egypt, April 11 (AP)—More than 30 Axis planes have been shot down or destroyed by ground staffing in North Africa in the past week, an RAF statement said today.

It related details of an "amazing two days" when 22 German aircraft were destroyed with the loss of one British Hurricane. One Australian fighter squadron alone shot down 18 Nazi planes in two days with two losses of its own, the British said.

RAIDS CONTINUE
The RAF reported continued raids on the Axis concentrations at Derna, Gazala and Acroma with destruction of numerous motor transports and armored vehicles.

The same Australian squadron, a statement said, constantly strafed German forces on the ground and on one occasion destroyed two grounded transport planes.

A squadron of British Elsieheim bombers was reported to have scored five direct hits on concentrations of German motor trucks and armored cars near Agadabia Monday, fired several grounded Nazi bombers the next day and made two raids on German forces southwest of El Mechili.

Seven German planes were said to have bombed British-occupied Tobruk Tuesday night "without causing any damage," and one was believed destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

SLAVS BEING BLOTTED OUT, NAZIS CLAIM

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—Authorized German quarters declared today the Yugoslav army is being "systematically wiped up or even blotted out" as the high command told of the total destruction of Serb forces in the south, a determined German advance in the north and the crushing of several Yugoslav divisions in the center.

Ten thousand new prisoners were reported taken on the central front, bringing the total claimed captured to 30,000.

The surrender of the Greek army, pinched off when the blitzkrieg struck to Salonika, is "proceeding on schedule," the high command said, and "the number of prisoners and the amount of booty still cannot be estimated."

The daily communique said crossing of the Drava river in northern Yugoslavia had been forced and troops under Col. Gen. Baron Von Weichs were rushing forward despite "difficult terrain and weather conditions" in an advance that had been under way since yesterday morning.

"The enemy forces fighting in southern Serbia are destroyed," the high command said tersely.

"One of the remaining strong fighting groups was partly wiped out and the remainder taken prisoner April 10 near Krivovc by one German division."

Krivovc is about 57 miles south of Skopje and 45 miles north of the Greek frontier in the Vardar valley.

The German army advancing in central Yugoslavia from the northward toward Belgrade was in close pursuit of the Serbs and "crushed several divisions," the high command said.

The occupation of Zagreb, Croat capital in northern Yugoslavia, in a swift thrust by armored troops was reported.

Food Prices Jumped 19 P. C. Over 1940

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—Food prices have gone up as much as 19 per cent over a year ago, it was disclosed today as President Roosevelt created the new office of "price administration and civilian supply" to stop runaway prices.

A Department of Labor survey of food prices in 51 large cities as of March 12 revealed that there had been many advances particularly in the price of bacon, pork and beef.

Commodity	March 12	1940	Percent
Eggs	28.4c	24c	19.2
Bacon	25c	21c	19.0
Pork chops	29.5c	24c	23.3
White bread	7.4c	6c	23.3
Butter	27.8c	22c	26.4
Lard	8.5c	6c	41.7
Sugar	5.3c	4c	32.5
Corn	4.4c	3c	46.7
Pork chops	29.5c	24c	23.3
Round steak	30c	24c	25.0
Beef, round	35c	28c	25.0

According to advices reaching defense offices, there have been further increases in food prices since March 12 with butter, for instance, selling as high as 47 cents a pound in some areas experiencing a national defense boom.

The government also is concerned over prices of some industrial materials such as cotton textiles, cadmium and a number of other products which are burlap and hides. Unless the cotton textile situation eases, it is predicted prices also may be fixed for clothing.

Weather Report

OFFICIAL U. S. WEATHER BUREAU REPORT

LOCAL—Fair tonight and Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness; not much change in temperature; lowest temperature tonight about 42; gentle easterly winds.

NEW ENGLAND—Fair tonight and Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness, not much change in temperature.

GENERAL CONDITIONS
Clear weather with temperature slightly above normal continues today in the northern states, as high pressure remains centered to the northward. Precipitation will continue through Saturday, although increasing cloudiness is likely Easter Sunday. A low pressure system, centered over northeastern Mexico this morning, is attended by showery conditions in the plains states, and it is this disturbance which threatens to bring rain to New England late Sunday.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST
Extended forecast for the period, 1:30 p. m. Friday, April 11 to 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, April 16, 1941.
Precipitation will be light, less than one-third of an inch, during the next five days.

Fair weather early in the period will be followed by increasing cloudiness Sunday and scattered light rains Sunday night and Monday.

Temperature will average 4 to 7 degrees above normal. Normals for the period are, for Boston, 48 degrees, for Burlington, Concord, Portland and Manchester, 45, Eastport, 39, and New Haven, 47 degrees. Warmest weather during the first half of the period will be followed by cooler weather late half.

HUNGARY'S INTERVENTION ADDS TO GLOOM IN LONDON

By MERRILL MUELLER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 11 (INS)—A pall of gloom settled over London today with news of Hungary's intervention in Yugoslavia and the spectre of invasion once more haunted England.

Neutral military observers expressed opinion that if the present tide of battle continues, Germany may within six months smash at England from Norway and France regardless of the tremendous losses that are inevitable.

TEN-YEAR FIGHT SEEN

Active American participation on the side of Great Britain might alter this outlook, it was said. But in such an event, a ten-year struggle at least is anticipated.

It is no secret that Britain's shipping situation is serious, her food outlook unfavorable and her diplomatic activities none too successful.

A portion of this dispatch was deleted by censors.—Editor's note.

There is renewed speculation over the extended visit to Moscow of Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka. Information received in London hints at a new Nazi plot to embroil Japan with the United States.

Matsuoka has had several conferences in Moscow with German ambassador Count Von Schulenberg, and the latter has naturally been in constant telephone contact with Berlin.

MATSUOKA MAY RESIGN
Most observers in London are convinced that Matsuoka must resign his post upon his return to Tokyo.

Meanwhile it was learned on reliable authority that following German-Italian occupation of Benغاز, Premier Mussolini had a long audience with King Victor Emmanuel. Later, the king saw Pope Pius.

What effect this development may have upon the scheduled Easter message of the Pontiff could not be ascertained.

Suicide Leaves Swing Note

CHICAGO, April 11 (INS)—Miss Albina Catherine Triviers, 21-year-old cabaret singer who jumped to death from the 13th floor of a Loop hotel last night, left a note for a friend written in "swing" terminology, police disclosed today.

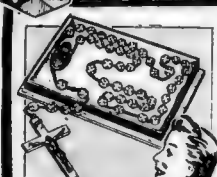

The note was written in Miss Triviers' own hand, who said Miss Triviers had been despondent for two years since the death of a close friend. The letter addressed to Miss Ellen said:

"Darling, this old heart is no longer in the groove and has finally given up. I've tried to go on being the slappy, do-it-my-care gal you have all been used to seeing, but I find I can't go on any longer. I can't pretend to go on and live any longer."

Survey Gives Uncle Sam Extra 3352 Square Miles

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Uncle Sam woke up today to the fact that he had 3352 square miles of land he never knew about.

The census discovered the additional land in making the first basic measurement of the United States since 1880. It was hidden in the past mostly by inaccuracies in maps, although part of the increase resulted from the drying up of small lakes.

Counting inland water as well as land, however, the bureau figured the total area of the continental United States at 3,022,387 square miles, a decrease of 4402 square miles from the previously accepted figures. This represented no shrinkage in the map, but was due to exclusion of coastal waters and the Great Lakes from the calculations for the first time.

Some of the maps involved in previous figures dated back before the Civil War, and the new measurements based on the latest surveys showed important changes in some states.

In terms of land areas, some of the biggest gainers were Texas, 1246 square miles; Colorado, 1151; Mississippi, 1058; Maine, 1145.

Principal losers in land area were New Mexico, 992 square miles, and Minnesota, 849 square miles.

Birmingham Hit Again by Nazis

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—Luftwaffe raiders numbering "several hundred" blasted Birmingham and other targets in central and southern England in rolling attacks lasting several hours, the German high command announced today.

"The efforts of the raid were obvious," a war bulletin said. "Good visibility permitted observation of numerous conflagrations."

The British acknowledged that Birmingham and Coventry were hard hit and that casualties were heavy in last night's assault.—Editor's note.

The high command said other Nazi air units striking at British shipping, sank a 3000-ton merchantman with a direct hit about 124 miles west of the Hebrides and damaged another large vessel northwest of the Shetlands.

The high command said further "effective" raids were concentrated on arms factories at Nottingham, port facilities at Southampton and other points on the British east and southeast coasts.

RAIDERS BLAST COVENTRY, BIRMINGHAM; RAF LASHES RUHR VALLEY, PORT OF BREST

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Coventry and Birmingham were among the places attacked by German bombers last night in raids which the British government acknowledged had caused considerable damage and probably heavy casualties.

It was the second raid on Birmingham, Midlands industrial center, in as many nights. Coventry, still recovering from a devastating raid last Nov. 14, was bombed heavily Tuesday night.

Coventry reported today that many casualties were believed caused by the raid. The number of dead and injured was not known at midday today, but several shelters received direct hits and numerous persons were trapped.

Following the usual pattern, the Nazis dropped hundreds of incendiary bombs which caused numerous fires. Most of these were under control, however, in a few hours. Among the places destroyed or set afire were the police station, post office and an institution.

Many were believed trapped in the ruins of buildings at nearby Birmingham, which likewise was heavily raided during the night.

The British reported their night fighters had destroyed nine of the Nazi raiders, which also kept London under alert for five hours and subdued at the south coast. An additional raider was said to have been shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

SHOOT DOWN 29

The British claim to have shot down 29 German planes over and around Britain in the 48 hours from Wednesday morning to this morning.

British bombers attacked industrial targets in the Ruhr Valley of Germany and struck again at the much-bombed naval base of Brest, on the Nazi-occupied French coast, where the British have reported the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau to be sheltering.

German sources said merely that a few British planes had dropped bombs and incendiaries in the western border region of Germany, causing minor property damage.—Editor's note.

The German planes, roaring in for the assault soon after the Nazis pressed the Luftwaffe would "avenge a hundred-fold" the smashing Wednesday night RAF attack on Berlin, ranged wide over the southern half of England.

There were no immediate reports of heavy damage in London, where the attack was the second in the last 20 days during which bombs fell.

The British said they considered a continuation of German night bombing assaults on this country an essential part of Axis war strategy and expected them to increase as the weather improves.

Child Thieves in Paris Underworld

A virtual child underworld... plotting, scheming...

THEY CALL THEM "baby bootleggers" — They are the street gamins of Paris, the desperate child derelicts and homeless orphans who have straggled in from conquered French territories to constitute a virtual children's underworld, living by their wits—begging, stealing, looting.

Lowell Momi, writing in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with the next Boston Sunday Advertiser, presents a graphic, first-hand description of this pathetic phenomenon of the war.

Don't miss the illustrated story of the juvenile underworld of Paris, and—even more striking—the tale of the "Mademoiselle of the White Gloves," its 16-page "Fuehrer."

A NEW GOLD-HUNTING expedition recently ended off for one of the legendary treasure-haunts of America—the richly rich Lost Dutchman Mine, hidden within the shadows of treacherous Superstition Mountain in southern Arizona.

According to legend, a curse hangs over the Lost Dutchman. Nearly a hundred years ago a group of searchers succumbed in finding gold there and on way back to civilization, were attacked by savage Apaches, who believed Superstition Mountain was the home of their thunder god.

You'll find history on Page Two of the American Weekly Sunday.

INCREASE is the word for the chemical firms waiting to be unleashed upon the world, according to scientists who have studied the progress of poison gases, crop destroying pesticides and other ruthless weapons of modern war.

Dr. Miles Hughes—the pseudonym of a refugee now in America who was consultant on such affairs to the laboratories of two European powers—gives you a terrifying insight into the subject in a particularly graphic, double-page article in The American Weekly Sunday.

Insect pests, mists of hidden flames, flocks of infected birds, an odorless, invisible gas which doesn't take effect until a week later—these are some of the latest inventions in the War of Total Destruction.

WERE OUR ANCESTORS healthier than we are?

WITH SPRING officially here, Mrs. Christine Frederick, the authority on household efficiency, tells her millions of readers this Sunday how to "Put Springtime in Your Menu." Husbands will notice the difference, too.

You'll also find, in the Housewife's Food Almanac, recipes and panaches, telling you how to make them seven different ways—as well as prize recipes sent in by readers. These are but some of the features specially selected for you in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with the next Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Apache Indians attacked them...

Is it possible that our refinements in food have eliminated vitamins and other values we sorely miss? Robert D. Potter, Science Editor of The American Weekly, tells you all about it Sunday.

SHE'S ONLY 18— She weighs scarcely 110 pounds. And yet she's catapulted into fame as Mexico's newest lady bull-fighter as heroine of more than 100 thrilling battles.

Baby Rides 2 Miles On Running Board Of Her Dad's Car

NASHUA, N. H., April 11 (AP)—Four-year-old Jean Tyler was taken for a thrilling ride today on the running board of her dad's car.

The child squatted on the running board in such a position that her father couldn't see her while driving two miles from his home in the outskirts to the downtown section.

The uninvited girl, who said she nearly fell off twice, explained: "I wanted to go for a ride with daddy."

Weymouth Guest Dies in Bungalow Fire

A 27-year-old East Weymouth man was burned to death today when he was trapped in a blazing bungalow where he was a visitor.

The youth, Carl Higgins of Middle St., had inadvertently set the fire himself when he tipped over a lighted oil burner.

He had been visiting the home of John F. Comstock, in Lake Shore Drive, East Weymouth, where only Mrs. Comstock and her eight-year-old son, John, were at the time of the fire. They were awaiting the return of Comstock.

Mrs. Comstock and she left Higgins in the dining room, went into another part of the house, heard a crash and returned to find that he had knocked over the burner and that the room was a mass of flames.

Mrs. Comstock carried her son outside, then returned and tried to pull Higgins free, but smoke and flames drove her back.

Firemen wearing gas masks beat their way into the living room and took Higgins out. Every bit of clothing was burned from his body.

He was removed to Weymouth Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Justice Hughes 79 Years Today

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, whose vitality and keen sense of humor belie his age, reached his 79th birthday anniversary today.

The white-bearded jurist, who has presided over the Supreme Court for more than 11 years, preferred to overlook the occasion. He told newspapermen he had nothing to say.

Apparently he still adheres to the philosophy of a remark he made a few years ago that he was "going along without reference to the calendar."

There has been speculation over the possibility of the chief justice retiring in June at the end of this term, but he has given no indication that he planned to do so. On the contrary, friends have quoted him as saying he intended to remain on the court as long as his health permitted.

He appears to be in good health, and he has not needed a day from court duties since the term began last October.

TECH SENIORS ELECT

Permanent officers of the senior class at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, announced today after class elections, are Willard S. Mott of Bridgeport, Ct. president, and Henry Backer of Boston, secretary.

Old Age Recipients Aided

All old age recipients who own their own homes have been placed on the same level of exemption, Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Rushnell said today after ruling that recipients may hold an equity of $3000 in their homes.

Previously, recipients were limited to a $2000 equity, he explained. Now those who gave bonds to towns giving the municipalities permission to obtain reimbursement for aid from property held by the recipient in excess of $2000 limit, must be given advantage of the amendment which sets the $3000 limit.

KATHRYN GRAYSON'S PRIVATE SECRETARY ALMOST STEALS 'HARDY' HONORS

Rooney Finally Wins Diploma

By PEGGY DOYLE

Bumpkins, brassy Andy Hardy is suffering through the last days of high school on Loew's State and Orpheum screens this week, and no one is enjoying his exuberant turmoil more than his local teen-age contemporaries.

An Andy Hardy audience is invariably as good a show as the best Hardy Family release, and yesterday's opening show audience at the Orpheum was no exception.

From the instant Metro's latest Andy adventure, "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary," began unrelenting, the attention was rapt and the comment audible all around us. Boys who thought they wouldn't do so badly in Andy's shoes (there are those who say Mickey Rooney has grown too big for 'em, fancy that) and girls who couldn't decide whether they'd rather be private secretary Kathryn Grayson or best-gill Ann Rutherford made up the large part of the house.

There was unanimous and vociferous sympathy when Andy was flunked in English and advised he mustn't graduate. The bright boy muffed the exam because he was preoccupied with such big-business concerns as what to dictate to his private secretary, how to make a profit on the senior dance and the dizzying prospect of soon owning a new streamlined roadster with a pushbutton topfifter and red-leather seats.

They got an enormous kick out of private secretary Grayson's sisterly kiss of gratitude which left its lipstick impress on Andy's cheek for all the world and particularly the devoted doubting Ann Rutherford to see.

The relief echoed through the house when Andy, given a second chance at the English test, was coached by his fireless and reluctant palsy-walder throughout the previous night, passed successfully and lined up for his diploma with the rest.

Perhaps life will be sterner for Andy now that he's out of high school and due to enter college. This bouncing ball of a lad, whose setbacks always turn into triumphs, might, with a little trouncing from life a la the script-writers, it would keep him . . . and Mickey the Room . . . more human.

As it is, young Miss Grayson, M-G-M's 18-year-old threat to Universal's Deanna Durbin, all but stole the picture from Mickey with her unspoiled charm, acting talent and really exceptional voice. Roscoe Karns son, Todd Karns, also a screen swimmer, is first-rate as the juvenile lead. Lewis Stone's Judge Hardy is his customary kindly, sympathetic self; Fay Holden's Mrs. Hardy is understanding and motherly, and the other cast members of the family are all excellent. "Ellery Queen, Master Detective," is the newest in the whodunit series, involving Ralph Bellamy and Margaret Lindsay in the starring roles.

'Adam Had Four Sons' Opens On Para-Fenway Screens

Ingrid Bergman, who wouldn't be a Hollywood glamour girl, has had even a worse fate since she exchanged Broadway for the Babylon-on-the-Pacific . . . a reputation of bad casting in unworthy stories.

In "Adam Had Four Sons," which opened yesterday on the Paramount and Fenway screens in company with "Blonde Inspiration," this fine Swedish actress is wasted in an uninspired adaptation of a rambling family saga, 1917-18.

Perhaps you have read the Charles Bonner novel on which the motion picture is based. Your reviewer has not and is, therefore, not competent to make comparisons. No matter, the film version is slow-motion and unconvincing except when Miss Bergman's honest and expert portrayal of the French governess gives it vitality and credibility. The rest is melodramatic nonsense, ineptly written and directed.

There is something arresting about the way Miss Bergman rescues the little French governess from anonymity and makes of her a slim and very real tower of strength in this household of human jelly-fish. She is greatly talented and she deserves a nobler vehicle for her artistry, a rare and valuable asset even in fabulous Hollywood.

Warner Baxter, looking terrifically grim in his first unromantic role, is the Adam of the title, who doesn't give any evidence of deserving Miss Bergman, whom he wins in the end.

Susan Hayward, a demure little beauty when she visited Boston a year or so ago, is a most objection-

Newsboys' Fete in May

Opera and music are going democratic in Boston. Just a few weeks ago we had the unusual spectacle of be-jeweled society matrons invading a downtown moving picture palace to attend grand opera, and now comes news that the windup of the concert season will be in Boston Garden.

The concert, to be presented by Leopold Stokowski and his All-American Youth Orchestra will be held at the Garden, Tuesday evening, May 20, for the benefit of the Burroughs Newsboys Foundation.

Headed by Mrs. James F. Cutter, chairman, the invitation committee includes Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Edward Dane, Henry Parkman, Jr., Edward A. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Maximilian Adams, Stephen B. Cabot, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hausserman and John F. Perkins.

Representative Bostonians sponsoring the affair include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Burroughs, Mr. Pietro Capponi.

Smart Set Fashions Flower-Hung Pillbox

WHEN pompadour pillboxes began to look like the "hats of the season," what with mounting hair-dos... and the very youthful look of them, worn ingeniously high and straight on the head... no one quite foresaw what a certain designer would do to make them the most striking hat of the season! She might have hung those blooms to harmonize with the long bobs of the glamour girls for whom she designed the hats... it was a clever idea, anyway. And here is her newest, a veil swathed Ming yellow straw pillbox, with field flowers sewn onto green grosgrain ribbons and hanging picturesquely to the shoulders.—ANNICE BRINK.

AFTER 35 SERUTAN

HANDLING fighters is a very risky business. The chances against a manager bringing any boy from the bottom to the top is about eighty to one, even when the boy has a punch, heart, brains—and luck. If the boy's just a fighter, the chances are about a thousand to one against, or no chance at all. So many things can happen to a willing boy.

Liquor and the ladies stop as many fighters as they do contenders in any other line. But take that for granted and there are a lot of other things.

Sometimes a b.y. has 20, 30 fights before he gets up against a really tough man. The beating he gets then makes him punch shy and from there on in, he's about as useful as a hunting dog that's afraid of guns. Or a boy may decide to handle himself without telling his manager. So he maps out his own battles and gets so many lickings he quits.

Another boy may have too much imagination. He gets thinking his opponents are too good for him. And when he holds that thought, they are and he really hasn't a chance. Or a boy may get punched from a bad beating, like Joe Oakes, he may go intellectual.

That was!

He was a welter-weight at twenty with good chances of growing into a middle. He had everything, punch, heart and brains. He was seventeen before he put on a glove in the CCC camp where he had gone when his father got twisted up by arthritis and lost his farm. The Oakes needed money bad. In his first fight, Joey liked the camp bully so neatly that the boys entered him in an amateur tournament. He was runner-up in his first amateur year, champion in his class in his second. Then he turned professional under the handling of Abie Schmol.

A "NATURAL"

Abie was crazy about the kid from the moment he signed him up. He'd talk anybody's ear off about him, provided only that they would listen. "Look," he'd say, "after twenty years handling fighters, I got a natural. I got a fighter that can box, a boxer that can hit. He shapes up like Benny Leonard and punches like Jack Dempsey. Some day, I'll have a champ, sure!"

The record bore him out. Joey had 15 fights in his first year. He won 11 by K. O.'s, won three by decision, drew one. The next year he doubled on all of them. His punch was good night. He moved up to the semifinals. He was only five fighters away from the top of the heap.

If you'd been a betting man, you'd say there was nothing that could stop Joey Oakes from being champion. His was the kind of stuff from which champions are made. He was a good-looking kid, even though you'd know right away he was a fighter. He was marked up. His nose was steadily getting flatter against his face. His cheek bones were lengthening out. His lips were being pounded bigger.

But his blue eyes were laughing and kind of thoughtful. His black hair was always neat and he moved, sure and graceful, like the trained athlete he was.

The kid had friends, even among the fight writers. They liked him because he was always respectful and never fresh. He admired anybody who could put one word after another on paper and make it add up to something sensible. He couldn't do that himself. He knew he had gone up through his

JOE OAKES, a fighter on his way to the top until he meets HARRY HIRSH, and acquires an education, much to the disgust of ABIE SCHMOL, who is Joe's manager.

Lincoln?" Afterward, Joey said he knew all the time it was John Wilkes Booth, but he couldn't get the name under his tongue soon enough.

Ordinarily, nothing would have come out of this quirk. It was just one of those things that go to break the dull monotony of a training camp. Only Ed Belders of the Morning Sun used it for his column the morning after it happened. After describing how all the fighters lived up to their reputation for not knowing anything except how to give and take it, he singled out Joey Oakes and marvelled at the things he knew. He said, Ed did, that not since Gene Tunney had such an erudite fighter appeared.

Abie was tickled to death with the story. It was publicity and it boosted his fighter. He showed it

Harry Hirsch knocked Joey out in the third round. Joey got up from the floor about a minute after the referee started counting. He shook his head. He said, "I saw that punch coming. I was working out the defense for it when it landed. It came too fast."

"You never had to work out no defense for a punch before," Abie told him sadly. "When a punch came before, you just ducked and started the counter. When the counter landed, the fight was over. Look, Joey, I am your friend. And I tell you what is the matter with you. You are reading too much. No fighter ought to read. It takes his mind off his work. You cut it out. Hear me?"

"I will never cut it out," Joey told him quietly. "I am going to study while I'm fighting. Then in about five years, when I am all washed up, I will be a smart man. I will be educated. And I will not be a bum and a little punch drunk. I will know how to take care of my money."

A RUINED FIGHTER

Abie Schmol started to throw him right out then, but he liked the kid and he thought he'd learn something. But Joey only learned out of books. He didn't learn anything new about fighting. He even forgot what he already knew. In his next five fights, he was knocked out four times, and lost the decision in the other. His excuse for all of them was, "I saw the punch coming and I was working out a counter when it landed."

After the last fight, Abie told him, "Well, you can work out how to get a new manager, Joey, because you and me is washed up. I want fighters, not bookworms, working for me and you're no fighter."

"That is perfectly agreeable to me, Mr. Schmol," Joey said carefully because now he was always talking carefully with a nice ear to the sound of his voice speaking good English. "I doubt that I'll have any difficulty finding a new manager."

But he had plenty of trouble. Nobody would have anything to do with him. At the end of six months, he was broke and almost hungry. He met Abie Schmol one day then.

"Abe," he said, "how about getting me a fight?"

"What?" Abie shouted, "handle an educated guy like you? I wouldn't have the nerve. I just handle mugs. You're too smart for me."

"Not any more, Abe," Joey insisted. "I see my mistake now. A fighter should never read a book."

Never Read a Book

By Charles McGuirk

second year in high school, but he'd taken his education like most normal boys. Ninety per cent of it had gone over, not through, his head. He didn't know much. So his admiration of people he thought knew something should have been the tip-off.

His style of fighting was like the kid himself. It was quiet, efficient and deadly. He would start studying his opponent from the moment he climbed through the ropes and sat on his stool. When he walked out to fight, he would still be studying. He never threw the first punch. He always waited for the other fellow. Then he'd counter. He'd go on doing that for the whole first round. Maybe he'd still be doing it in the second. After that, he knew all he needed. He'd start fighting. Any punch thrown at him brought the natural counter. Joey never thought about it. His body reacted without his brain. It was all a matter of coordination. Inevitably, the opponent left an opening. Joey threw a punch. The fight was over.

Things changed all of a sudden for Joey while he was in Madam Hydo's Training Camp in Pennsylvania, N. J., readying up to appear in the semi-final of The Champion against Paddy Hare, the contender. Joey's opponent would be Harry Hirsch, a very tough boy who learned how to fight about a week after he learned how to walk. Harry knew all about fighting, fair and otherwise.

Well, there were about 15 fighters and six wrestlers out at Madam Hydo's at that time and they were doing all right until the master of ceremonies of a radio quiz program thought it might be amusing to have a sort of Information Please session between fighters and wrestlers.

A MENTAL "GIANT"

His name was Gerdon, Jones Gordon, and he picked two teams of four fighters and four wrestlers. The questions were ones almost anybody but fighters could answer. The wrestlers won hands down because, outside the ring, wrestlers are pretty well-read guys. Fighters aren't. But the thing that made that quiz memorable was the way Joey Oakes came out of it.

He knew all the answers but one. The one was, "What was the name of the man who shot Abraham to Joey. And Joey took it seriously. He didn't know the meaning of erudite and he asked for a dictionary in which to look it up. Madam Hydo was scandalized. "I got iodine and alcohol," she said laughingly, "I got colodion, I got ether, I got hot ice, all for stopping the bleeding. I got bandages. I got six-ounce and eight-ounce gloves. I got punching bags, light and heavy. I got bars to work out on. But I ain't got a dictionary. Why should I have? Am I running a training camp or a library?"

Joey ordered "bie to get him a dictionary. Abie went away muttering to himself but the next day he brought a dictionary and from that moment, Joey started to change.

The other fight writers started to kid him gravely. They told him that he could learn all about fighting out of books. One of them brought him Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Gray." He couldn't understand it but he read it through. He went on reading and he was as bad about it as a drunk. He neglected his training to read.

It's bad for his eyes. Get me a fight and I'll prove it."

Abie got him the fight. He proved it. He won in the second by a K. O. He fought like he did in the old days. Study. Watch the punch coming. Counter. Win. He went on from there to greater things. Sure, he's a champ today. A nice guy, too. Only never offer him a book. If you do, he'll throw you and it out of the joint. Books, he says, are bad for fighters. A fighter should never read a book.

A Sorrowful Friday

OF ALL the days in the Christian calendar this is the saddest. Catholics and Protestants, faithful to customs and traditions that have endured for nearly two thousand years, unite in grief for the sufferings and death of Christ.

Once more in spirit, millions walk with Jesus to Calvary's heights; again behold the nailed hands, pierced heart and thorn-crowned head; again hear the cry that Time will never still:

"Forgive! Forgive! They know not what they do!"

We in America call the day Good Friday.

Elsewhere, particularly in European countries, it is Holy, Great or Sorrowful Friday.

The origin of the term Good is not clear.

Some authorities say it comes from the German Gottes Freitag, which means God's Friday.

Others maintain that it is a derivative of Gute Freitag, a

"Forgive! Forgive! They know not what they do!"

From Painting by Hofmann

designation accepted and literally translated by the English.

But for most of the world in this dark and desperate year of 1941, the day is truly a Sorrowful Friday.

Never before was the Son of God more reviled and blasphemed. Never before did His teachings mean so little to men in high places.

Never before were there so many Christians failing to practice Christianity.

We sincerely hope that every Catholic and Protestant will go to his church today or take his Bible and read the story of the Passion.

No one can fail to be impressed by the majesty of the Saviour.

He who healed the sick, raised the dead and calmed the seas allowed Himself to be crowned with thorns, cruelly scourged and put to death in the most ignominious manner.

And in the midst of His agony He was able to lift His eyes to His Father in Heaven and ask forgiveness for His tormentors and killers.

IF ALL PEOPLE in all countries analyzed their leaders and governments more carefully and asked "How well do these men measure up to the standards set by Christ?" wars would disappear forever.

In so genuine a Christian civilization there would be no room for rulers who usurp powers that belong to God or for war profiteers, munition makers, mass murderers or gold worshippers.

All the people, the youngest as well as the oldest, would be too busily engaged in life's most important business—that of saving their immortal souls.

Perhaps this is too much to expect, particularly in view of the fact that today, twenty centuries after Christ's glorious sacrifice, millions are no nearer to Him than were Pilate and the soldiers who nailed Him to the Cross.

But there is hope in the knowledge that other millions will go to their churches, read their Bibles and prove by their acts and deeds that Calvary's lessons still have a place in human hearts.

On these followers of Christ, not on vain rulers or strutting generals, depend the happy or better tomorrow.

On The Side

"MY HUSBAND is probably the country's champion self-shaver," proudly writes a Milwaukee matron. "He accomplishes the complete operation in two minutes and 40 seconds. I timed him." Very interesting. Wonder what wife in America is the quickest dresser. The one who keeps her husband waiting the least time. Will you time the little lady, sir, if you think she is a speed girl in this respect? A thing like this could turn out to be a noble experiment. I mean if we furnish a few figures as to speedy dressing of wives it may make the slow dressers self-conscious and inspire an effort to improve.

ASIDES: Ann Sheridan is to star in a film based on what happened in the Nineties in the Klondike. Best "Klondike" film of all time was "The Flame of the Yukon," in which Dorothy Dalton starred. . . Business expert says there has been a 2 per cent increase in living costs as compared to an 8 per cent increase in wages. Does this tally with your current experience, sir? . . . Only 3 per cent of the trade of the United States is traceable to foreign sources. If you dispute this, take it up with Senator Gerald P. Nye. That's what he claims. . . If you dream of places or people you have never seen in life it may be the result of an experience of one of your ancestors. So states a man of science. However, don't take this too seriously. If you dream you are being hung it may just be the neck of your pajamas is too tight. . . "The sense of being well dressed gives a feeling of inward tranquility which religion is powerless to bestow." Am asked if Helen Bell or Emerson said this. Helen Bell said it, Emerson quoted her. . . Best place to buy a ham sandwich is where they slice the ham with a knife. Machine cut ham is just a trifle thicker than a piece of typewriting paper.

FRIENDSHIP: Ben Franklin said: "There are three faithful friends—an old wife, an old dog and ready money." Observed Gelett Burgess: "Love is only chatter, friends are all that matter." Said Churton Collins: "In prosperity our friends know us; in adversity we know our friends." And at a dinner party when the woman sitting next to him passed up the gravy, Sidney Smith exclaimed: "Madame, I have been looking all my life for a person who disliked gravy; let us swear eternal friendship."

spite of France and the last war.)

"I wonder if you saw our last 'George Medal List for Bravery.' It began with a small boy of 11, who had worked all through the Country road helping to get people out of burning buildings and ended with an old lady of 91, who had quietly put out the incendiary bombs and had then come back into the house, saying nothing to anyone, and so to bed."

"Some kinds of food are hard to get now, but no one seems to go hungry. It is mainly the extras that we have to do without. As you know, I cannot very well compare this war with the last, since I was in France all the time, living on army rations. I am told that the shortage is nothing like it was in the winter of 1917.

"Last week I was at the English-Speaking Union when the Queen came to see the clothing sent from America for the evacuee and shelter children. We all felt that these met a real need."

LAST evening I spoke at the dinner given by the New York City Board of Education to hear the conclusion of months of hard work and innumerable reports, made by groups of doctors and educators on the care and education of handicapped children. It is a study made in New York City but of value to the whole family.

Changes have come about in medical care, more knowledge is now at hand and certain new techniques must be developed in order to give handicapped children the best possible opportunity for education and future usefulness in life. I hope many people will read this report, since we have, I believe, some six million handicapped children in the country.

AND NOW for more of Dame Rachel Crowley's letter:

"I cannot pretend for a moment that we are all of us feeling very brave, but people are carrying on, believing that anything is better than the Hitler regime, and determined not to give in. I, personally, feel very much like the old lady who wrote here the other day: 'I am 90. I cannot say that I and my elderly invalid sister are not nervous when the siren goes. We are, but we both agree that it is most important that Hitler should not be told this.'"

"My old aunt, who had her 90th birthday during a very bad raid the other night, said she felt Hitler must have known it was her birthday to give her such a clapping. (I, for one, hate raids, in

'JIMMY' GETS READY TO GO ABROAD

By Leonard Lyons

Jimmy Roosevelt

NEW YORK, April 11—Jimmy Roosevelt, who is going to Greece and London, still is trying to dispose of his film interests only for the duration of the emergency. . . . The State Dept. is investigating the refusal of Cuban radio stations to move its wave lengths pursuant to the Havana agreement. . . . The "Thin Man" is being auditioned for radio serialization. . . . The author of a current musical just paid a $100 bet he made against "Lady in the Dark" running even six weeks. He made the bet at the Boston opening. . . . The Gridiron dinner which was held in Washington last week will be the last of the long series. The Washington newspaper men who write these shows no longer find amusement in bitter satires of American events—the satires which usually have featured these dinners. And the President, who usually makes strong reply to the opposition speech, made a softened one last Saturday—for it's difficult to hurl strong blows at loyal opposition. . . . And so, during the current crisis, the Gridiron dinners will be abandoned.

LAMENT: The current issue of a popular magazine has an article by Ernest Lehman and David Brown, about Eddie Davis, the former hack-writer who became the author of successful musical comedies. . . . On the day of publication, Davis wired the authors: "Just bought a lot of copies at 25 cents each. Next time please write it for a nickel magazine."

SUCCESS: George Jean Nathan believes that Eugene O'Neill's "The Ice Man Cometh" is the finest play that was ever written in America. Despite the urging of Nathan and other friends of O'Neill, the playwright refuses to have it produced until he's well enough and ready to come to N. Y. . . . When his friends insist that O'Neill's presence here is not necessary, for a successful production, he answered: "Again I tell you I won't allow it. I let them do 'Dynamo' while I was away—and the only thing people talked about in the play was Claudette Colbert's beauty."

RACE: Both MGM and Howard Hughes are producing pictures about Billy the Kid. They've been racing through productions, each trying to reach the screen first. . . . Hughes finished before Metro did, examined the completed film—and decided upon two weeks of re-takes. Metro was pleased, for this meant that they'd get the jump. But last Thursday they examined their completed film, starring Robert Taylor, and decided upon re-shooting. And so now both studios again are tied in the race to release the story of the American outlaw.

QUERY: Supreme Court Justice McCooley of Brooklyn joined the round table at the Stork Club and propounded the question: "What's the difference between a gardenia and an elephant?" . . . His listeners played straight and repeated: "What is the difference between a gardenia and an elephant?" . . . "You can put a gardenia in your lapel," said McCooley. "That's all there is to it—it's clean and not tricky. Such dopes—not knowing the difference between a gardenia and an elephant."

RETURN: The President's recent cruise in the waters off Florida was an unpleasant one to almost all his guests—who were poor sailors. "Pa" Watson, the President's aide became seasick, but the cruise was continued. . . . Harry Hopkins, Roosevelt's best friend, was seasick every minute of the cruise—but the President wouldn't turn about. But when Fala, F. D.'s pet dog, became seasick, the President ended the cruise and returned to Washington a day sooner than he had planned.

DRAMA: The stage manager and promoter in William Saroyan's new show, "The Beautiful People," is a man named Peter Xantho. Before rehearsals began Xantho also had a featured role in the show—a role in which he recited 600 words. . . . "That's wonderful," he told Saroyan. "I'm an instructor in the Drama School at C. C. N. Y. All my students will be proud of me." . . . "You really teach drama at college?" said Saroyan, who is making his first effort at producing and directing a play. "That's very good." He then cut Xantho's role down—to one word, the word "Yeah" . . . Now even that one word has been eliminated. And Peter Xantho plays the role of a Central Park bum.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT

By JOE CARTER

Pinch-Hitting for Vacationing George Holland

THIS IS REALLY the second column on Camp Edwards after dark. In our own peculiar fashion it took us a whole column to try to explain some of the feeling you get being in the camp after nightfall; but now—what really goes on in the camp at night? You can let your boots a lot of that will never be printed.

SOME OF THE GAGS can be told, like the one about the sergeant who was in a barracks, explaining what to do at fire drill to a group of three-week-old selectees (this really happened, the fellows down at the 104th Infantry swear). "Now what would you do if you heard the fire alarm at night?" he asked. "Well," said a recruit, without cracking a smile, "I'd get up and feel the wall. If it wasn't warm, I'd go back to bed."

GENERALLY about the most mischief the boys get into during an evening is that short-sheet business. This is a natty trick whereby, when a soldier is out for the evening, a group of his friends carefully remake his bed, folding the sheet under the blankets so that when he climbs in, his feet will be able to get only about half way down. This necessitates his remaking his bed in the total darkness (lights go out at 9:30) and of course is occasion for a good hearty laugh all around. Other forms of wit include a liberal sprinkling of corn flakes in the bed, sending a fellow out for a key to the parade ground, and such gay diversions.

MOSTLY AFTER DARK the fellows are so darned tired, what with those 20-mile hikes and one thing and another, they get right onto bunk fatigue—go to bed. Week nights, of course, there isn't time for them to get from the camp into Buzzards Bay or Falmouth and back before lights go out.

THERE ARE movies on the grounds every night (bill changed daily, admission 20 cents—for this free ad, War Department please remit, at the day rooms there are books and magazines (you think those magazines in dentists' offices are old, there isn't a kid in camp who isn't familiar with the advertisements of 1919 Chalmers), ping pong and pool. There is basketball and volleyball, and in the summer there'll be baseball and boxing, for those still standing.

IN THE CANTERNS are soda fountains, counters where merchandise is sold (tobacco, tooth paste and so on), lunch counter—and bar. If your feet hold out, you can work your way to the bar in 15 minutes generally, and get beer. The music juke boxes play without ever stopping, and you could cut the smoke with a knife.

AT THE BARRACKS the soldiers write letters, play cards for cigarettes (money, if it's pay day), listen to the radio, read, discuss the military problems of the day, and talk. They say the World War soldiers talked only about women and money. These modern soldiers don't seem to worry about money so much.

THERE ARE ALWAYS details—fire guard (watching and stoking the furnaces) and kitchen police. On week-ends, the boys go home, or go to nearby towns.

OF COURSE, there is one after dark situation that can be told, and this is a situation that certainly has given Lieut.-Col. Ralph T. Hilton a turn. Col. Hilton is signal officer for the 26th Division and among his charges is a flock of pigeons that has been in camp but a few weeks that are quite pets among the boys. Each has its name, and one was named Bob. Imagine the surprise—of course you've guessed this—that came up one morning when it was found that Bob had given birth to an egg. Well, that caused a little shaking of the head, but everyone made the best of it and simply changed Bob's name. But that's not all—the egg hatched out and now the camp has one more citizen, a baby pigeon that gets more care than the general. Col. Hilton was flooded with telegrams of congratulation, and letters speculating on just what Bob did with HER nights.

CANOVA, LEDERER WILL CO-STAR

By Louella O. Parsons

Francis Lederer

HOLLYWOOD, April 11—There is almost just like Judy Canova on the screen today. She is a great comic and she never sacrifices a part just to look pretty. Moreover, she has a certain wistfulness that comes through, probably because she is sincere and real. Judy, who with Gene Autry is Republic's biggest star, is getting ready for her next picture, "Puddin' Head," in which Francis Lederer plays the male lead.

Francis, who was expected here for a Constance Bennett Columbia picture, checks in instead at Republic April 21, to be co-starred with Judy. This a mighty good role for Francis, too, since he plays a count which will fit his accent perfectly.

ROSEMARY LANE

I WAS GLAD to talk to Harry D'Arrast, who has come back from France to be with his wife, the former Eleanor Boardman. He arrived on a Spanish ship and Eleanor met him in Havana and you can imagine what a happy reunion they had after having been parted all those dreadful months. Harry has had any number of offers to direct a picture and he certainly could do one on conditions abroad if he were so inclined. Paramount is interested in a remake of his own picture "Laughie." He says that in his opinion 99 per cent of the French colonies will rally to the cause of England at their first opportunity. France, he told me, was a victim of the Fifth Columnists and he urges that all Americans be on their guard for he says these Communists are in Army camps, in every town and are seeking to destroy this country as they did France.

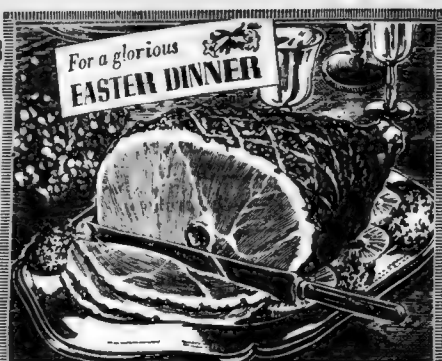

THE RIOT SQUAD might as well hold itself in readiness. George Montgomery, who is a combination of Clark Gable and Cary Grant (and not a bad combination for any movie hero) is going to kill the femmes. What's even more important to the Montgomery career is this: Ray McCarey, who directed him and Cobina, Jr., in "The Cowboy and the Blonde," showed the picture to his brother, Leo, who is one of the best directors in the business. Leo was so impressed with the good-looking former Montana cowboy that he wants to borrow him from 20th Century-Fox for a lead in one of his forthcoming Howard Hughes pictures. And that, my friends, is not bad news for any movie hero—even one much better established than George.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Elaine Barrie has enrolled in a short story writing class at U. C. L. A. under an assumed name; Laird Cregar, thirty-five pounds lighter, was on the "Blood and Sand" set today. Measles did it, in case you want to know; Katherine Stevens, Sam Woods' talented and pretty daughter and Van Heflin have been keeping the telephone busy; Binnie Barnes played a scene in "Angels With Broken Wings" too realistically and she has a broken rib. She was supposed to come between Eddie Norris and Gilbert Roland who were having a movie fight.

ROSEMARY LANE and Buddy Westmore will spend Easter Sunday at Victorville and I reckon so will Priscilla for that's where her boy friend, John Barry lives; Bill Orr will give his famous impersonation of President Roosevelt in a fireside chat scene in "Navy Blues." All I can say is that when he did it on the stage the Democrats asked us to wait until after election and the Republicans said it gave the Democrats too much publicity. That's how good he is.

COUNT OLEG CASSINI and Sylvia Fairbanks at Ciro's one night and Sylvia with Huntington Hartford III, at the Mocambo the next night; George Burns gave a blood transfusion to the three-week-old daughter of his brother who was very ill; Mrs. Walter Compton, wife of Republic's publicity director, whose life hung on a thread for 24 hours, is reported out of danger and the baby is doing nicely too which makes Walter smile again; Pat Morison cocktail party brought Stirling Hayden and Cobina Wright, Jr., together.

LOUELLA PARSONS, famed internationally-circulated Hearst motion picture columnist, will be heard locally over Station WEEI every Friday between 10 and 10:30 p. m.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. DAVID SIGOURNEY'S Nahant home is once again fairly bursting with canvas, oil paintings and volunteer artists, for this jolly and talented society matron is knee deep in planning decorations for a British War Relief Society benefit affair...

This time she is putting her artistic talents to good use in devising a backdrop for a novel fashion show of clothes, cars and flowers to be held in the Somerset ballroom next Tuesday afternoon to raise funds for war relief...

The backdrop will be an old English brownstone mansion and in front of it will be a terrace bursting with lovely fresh spring flowers... Instead of the prosaic parade of mannequins down a runway, the society models will walk toward the mansion as if they were going to a party... When they reach the flower terrace they will mingle with other party guests, giving the fashion show spectators a wonderful opportunity to view the clothes, and when each guest is ready to leave the terrace a real car will drive up and carry her off... The cars, ranging from shiny limousines to beach wagons, will be chosen as appropriate accessories for the formal and sports costumes shown...

The committee for this novel affair, at which guests will be served sherry and hors d'oeuvres, include Mr. and Mrs. Gaspar Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart C. Rand, Mrs. William Bayne, 3d, Mrs. Malcolm Bradlee, Mrs. Frank Lee Converse, Mrs. Charles Devens, Mrs. Evans Dick and a number of others...

Easter Doings of Socialites

NOTES FROM A SOCIETY EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK (We have to use a notebook nowadays—so we won't soil the cuff of our new Easter dress!)... Beth Killiam of Cambridge is coming home from Gotham, where she has been studying music all winter, to Easter Parade with her family, the Paul Killiams...

Like so many other Bostonians, the Francis B. Crowninshields are spending Easter in the South... They are still enjoying summery weather at their home at Boca Grande... Mrs. James Russell of Milton is extending her stay at Bel Air, Fla., till the end of April, when she returns to make final plans for the wedding of her daughter, Rosamond Whitney.

Mrs. Francis P. Cummings of Frides Crossing is coming back from Nassau in time to Easter Parade on Park ave. and is due in Boston early next week...

Because of the religious significance and quiet of Good Friday the regular Symphony concert was advanced a day this week—and drew a large and fashionable gathering to Symphony Hall yesterday afternoon... In the lobby we glimpsed Mrs. Alan Forbes and Mrs. Ronald Lyman comparing notes on their Easter bonnets which are almost identical... Both are flower turbans in shades of lavender-blue.

Mrs. George Saltonstall West attended the concert in a becoming pale blue pleated dress and turban of tiny forget-me-nots...

DOROTHY RACKEMANN, amiable and efficient volunteer publicity director of the Vincent Club, is giving an informal sherry party Monday to celebrate the windup of her efforts to spread the news about the forthcoming Vincent revue "Tonight at Nine"... Her guests will include Vincent officials who are supervising executive details of the show. The party will be at the Beacon st. home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Francis M. Rackemann.

Belmont Romance

Marjorie Palmer To Wed

A ROMANCE involving a member of Uncle Sam's foreign service and a pretty Belmont girl will culminate in the marriage April 25 of Miss Marjorie Clark Palmer of Belmont to George Fulford Scherer of Washington, D. C.

Rev. Endicott Peabody, former headmaster of Groton School, will officiate at the 8 o'clock ceremony in Christ Church, Cambridge, and the reception will take place at the Oakley Country Club.

The bride-to-be, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Palmer, attended Miss Sackler's School, the Garland School and the University of Mexico. Mr. Scherer is the son of the late Col. and Mrs. Charles Louis Scherer of Washington and Brockville, Ontario.

He attended Fessenden School, was graduated from Groton and Yale University. He is an officer in the foreign service of the U. S. A., having been stationed at Havana, Mexico City and Ciudad Juarez. He has recently returned from Bogota, Columbia, where he served as vice-consul and third secretary of the American legation.

Bridal attendants at the wedding will include Marianne Wentworth of Cambridge, maid of honor, Jean Gysan and Caroline Rogers of Belmont, Norma Parais of Winchester and Mary Ellen Forbes of Cambridge, bridesmaids. Captain Karl Laurence Scherer of Ft. Knox, Ky., will be best man to his brother.

For new flavor delight, try stuffing your tomatoes, cabbage, peppers, egg plant, etc., with Bell's. It's ready. Just add water.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

It was a strange thing He had told them, sitting there—a group of simple, toilworn men around the Leader whom they loved. Always before He'd talked in their own way, simple allegories of fish and nets and crowns and Roman tax. But now, all of a sudden, He'd gone strange—His eyes fixed on some goat they could not see, "And if I shall be lifted up," He'd said—and those who watched Him closely saw His face grow gray—"I'll draw all men up after Me."

"Be lifted up"—what could those kind of words mean? A king's son might be lifted to a throne... a Conqueror might ride on shuffling slaves. But here was just a plain and humble man, both of despised and lowly Nazareth. A Carpenter. How could a working man be "lifted up?" They did not know.

Nor did they guess until they saw Him on the cross. And then they saw the thing that He had seen. The sacrifice... the awful agony... not for the transient things of this earthly life, but for the things that will endure—that men may know a better way to walk.

"IF I BE LIFTED UP"—now, when it was all too late, they saw how terrible His struggle must have been. The thought of giving up His young and ardent flesh... of giving up the crusade that He lived before His mission had been halfway spent. The thought of bearing His clean back unto the scourge... of dying like a common thief upon a cross.

But that was what He meant by being "lifted up!" And if a man so dared to die, he would, he must, draw all men after him. For all men bore the love of death within their hearts. And all men, though they be craven, worshipped courage. And all men would be good, if they but knew the way. And even die upon the cross if they but had the bravery.

SO THAT WAS what He meant by "being lifted up!"

Yes, that was what He meant. And that same meaning lingers yet today. For those who dare to be "lifted up" shall surely draw all after them unto the heights.

You think "it doesn't pay to live straight and obscure?" You're wrong! Those who live straight are never obscure. Always they must pay for their straightness... always they will be lifted up above the common herd... and always they will draw all men after them.

Engagement Present

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me whether it is customary for a girl who has been given an engagement ring from her fiancé to reciprocate by giving him some kind of gift?

There seems to be a difference of opinion on this.

CLARA.

It is not customary and certainly not obligatory for a girl to give her fiancé an engagement present. However, neither is it improper for her to give her fiancé an engagement present.

I don't like the idea of the girl's giving her fiancé a ring, for he would, I am sure, prefer to be the only ring-bearer, but she might give him a pair of cuff links, a wrist watch, a cigarette case, or a watch chain, key chain or wallet, or an evening set of cuff links with matching studs.

You Can Be Beautiful

Make-Up to Match Your Difficult Spring Colors

By ARLINE GOULD

SOMETHING new in this cosmetic-minded scheme of things ... is having make-up "fittings" ... just as you try on hats and frocks!

There is a little jewel of a custom-made make-up salon in town ... whose individually blended things don't cost any more than a good "ready-made brand" ... and those smart girls who have discovered it have been known to walk in with boxes and boxes under their arms ... to fit make-up to their new clothes!

There is no charge for this consultation and complimentary make-up ... and the gamut of color and make-up types from which to choose run to incredible numbers. It's a color-conscious place ... for they know you can charge your type, wear any color under the sun or the moon with the right make-up ... and they know how to disguise complexion imperfections ... and countless other tricks.

They say the favorite new spring colors are purple, beige and green—colors that will require perfect make-up for chic and becomingness. These three colors are difficult for most women to wear ... but this salon sends out words of encouragement.

For purple, they'll choose shades which have a slight mauve cast, and amethyst eye shadow. Yellow green calls for coppery tones in make-up, with carnelian eye shadow. Yellow green calls for coppery tones in make-up, with carnelian eye shadow and sardonyx mascara.

Bluish overtones are essential for blue-green costumes ... and beige, a divine color, but one which can easily "wash out" delicate skin and hair tones, is accented with true, brilliant tones ... a vibrant red ... and emerald eye shadow and mascara.

If you'd like information on this complimentary "make-up fitting" to new or difficult spring colors, phone Anne Gould, 118-4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WARNING, LADIES! WASHING DISHES WITH STRONG LAUNDRY SOAPS CAN RUIN LOVELY HANDS!

A New Figure For Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

(Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It is not until a woman is past the sunny side of thirty that she is troubled enough with misgivings about her throatline to be willing to work to hang on to it.

But once you have decided it's time to take such beauty measures seriously, you can do a surprising lot. You need a little exercise, plenty of cold cream, some massage, and the habit of holding your head beautifully erect.

You can't "nourish" the throat tissues with any cold cream—the only way you can do that is through the circulation. But you can keep the skin well lubricated to ward off a crepey appearance.

Before massaging the throat, cleanse carefully. Then apply a generous amount of cream or oil. The technique is to work from the base of the throat up to the chinline, then out. "Knuckle" massage seems to be best, for it avoids stretching the skin. Make the hands into fists and place at the base of the throat column, then slowly "walk" the knuckles up to the chin, work deeply there over the fat padding, separate fists and continue along jawline.

Exercises for the throat and chinline is the most important measure—after all, your throat column is seven-eighths muscle. But there are good throat exercises which are so simple and so easy that they should not be considered a part of your daily dozen.

Here are a couple you can do in the morning or at night. Lie on the back across the bed with the head hanging limply over the edge. Now, tense the throat muscles and slowly raise the head until the spine is in a straight line. Slowly return to position and relax the muscles. Repeat five times.

Roll over and lie face downward, full length on the bed—without pillow. Clasp hands in back, arms straight, and lift head and shoulders off the bed with a good stretch and pull of shoulder and neck muscles. Hold for a second and slowly return to position. Relax and repeat.

After massage or exercise, cold cream may be left on overnight, but when exercises are taken in the morning, it should be removed and cold water splashed over throat. The cold water is a circulation stimulant.

None of this will do much good unless you round out your program with constant attention to head carriage. Use those muscles at the sides of the throat to carry your head. That's what they're for. Stretch your neck as long as you can get it and still keep the chin level—and try to make a habit of it. (Tomorrow—the specific measures for a bust problem.)

Love and Marriage

Mother Unduly Strict; Bans All Friends

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 18 whose mother won't permit her to go out with girls, much less boys. I'm the only child. My friends are allowed to bring their boy friends to their houses and they go out and have good times while I stay at home doing nothing.

Through one of my girl friends I met a young man whom I like very much indeed, and want to see him again. He's 23 and a gentleman in every respect. If I told my mother about him, she'd never let me go out again.

I don't drink or smoke. If I stay out after 10 o'clock I am made to stay in the house for two weeks or even a month. My father wouldn't forbid my going out, but he can't say anything about it. Won't you please tell me what to do, Miss Fairfax? A READER.

I've written so much in this column about the over-strict parent and the misfortunes this extreme watchfulness brings in its wake that I feel there's nothing more to be said on that subject. A girl of 18 who is not permitted to have her friends at the house is likely to run off and marry the first undesirable she meets.

This girl's father seems more open to reason, and I hope he will be able to persuade his wife to take a more reasonable attitude toward this cooped-up daughter.

Symbols of Easter

By MARTHA LEE

The egg, the hen and the lily are all symbols of Easter, and the three furnish the basis for Easter meals. Eggs, of course, furnish the interest for breakfast in a deviled ham omelet or scrambled eggs with sausage cakes—or serve the latter combination as Easter Nest Eggs.

The Easter dinner might start with tomato juice, which isn't a new idea, of course, but served with melba toast spread with herb-flavored cheese it's a new flavor. The bread may be rolled in hollow-cone shapes (held in place with toothpicks) which will come out like lilies when they are baked. Fill with the cheese mixture.

And as a change from ham, why not have chicken for Easter dinner. The ham can be eaten for breakfast or supper if you wouldn't feel right without it. Chicken, broiled, or a larger one roasted, may be served with currant jelly, carrots and peas, with an orange and almond salad on crisp lettuce to give the spring color effect. Vanilla ice cream may be molded into egg shapes with a large spoon. Or the ice cream mixture may be removed from the refrigerator before it becomes completely frozen. Beat it well and place in egg cups to shape. Return to refrigerator trays to finish freezing.

Bright golden yolks in fluffs of beaten whites fenced in with sizzling halves of sausages will certainly make a delicious breakfast. Serve with popovers and plenty of strong, hot coffee.

EASTER NEST EGGS

12 sausages
6 tbsp. chili sauce.
6 fresh eggs
Salt and pepper
Split sausages and brown lightly. Arrange 4 halves in each of 6 custard cups. Place 1 tablespoon of the chili sauce in bottom of each cup. Separate the eggs carefully, keeping the yolks whole. Beat whites until stiff, add salt and pepper. Pile in the custard cups and make an indentation in the middle of each. Drop in the yolks, and bake in a moderate oven (325 deg. F.) for 15 minutes or until the yolks are set and whites are lightly browned. Serve at once.

POPOVERS

2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup flour
¾ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. melted shortening
Beat eggs; add milk, then flour, sifted with salt. Add shortening and beat smooth with rotary beater. Fill oiled, preheated pop-over pans two-thirds full. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 20 minutes, then in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Pans should be heavy, either of heat-proof glass or cast iron. Makes eight popovers. Easter desserts should be light and evanescent in quality; therefore, dishes composed of whipped cream or the feathery whites of eggs are in order. Ice cream is good, but the fluffiness of this dessert makes it an Easter special.

EASTER SUNSHINE CREAM

1 tbsp. granulated gelatin
¾ cup cold water
1 cup granulated sugar
¾ cup boiling water
3 eggs
Juice of 1 orange
Canned or canned pineapple
Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Boil sugar and water until it spins a thread, and pour gradually over the yolks of the 3 eggs which have been beaten until stiff, beating all this while. Add the gelatin and orange juice and whip until almost congealed. Then beat in the egg whites which have been beaten until stiff but not dry. Pipe in tall slender glasses and chill. Decorate with strips of pineapple which may be canned or candied. Whipped cream may be piled on top if desired.

VANILLA ICE CREAM

2 egg yolks

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Friday, April 11, 1941

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You have unusual leadership ability and if rightly reared and living true to your great characteristics, attract success and popularity. Excellent in time of emergency and crisis. Inward nervousness and worry can bring about an impatient manner. You thrive under sympathetic understanding. Arians are among the Zodiac's most brilliant children. Earnest efforts and a purposeful life are of paramount importance. Push ever onward.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 52.

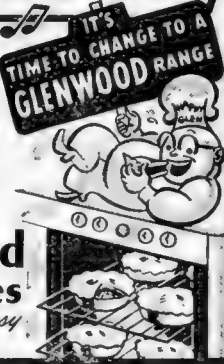

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is maroon.

Doerr Lost For Opener

By HERB FINNEGAN

BALTIMORE, April 11—Bobby Doerr was riding toward Boston today to have his injured left thumb X-rayed by club physician Dr. Tommy Richards, and the hopes of the Sox getting away to a good start in the A. L. pennant chase rode with him.

The Sox second sacker was scheduled to arrive at the Back Bay station at 2:45 this afternoon and hustle immediately to Dr. Richards' office for examination. There is a distinct possibility of a break which might keep him out of the lineup for three weeks or a month. The injury occurred in the eighth inning of the final game with the Reds in Cincinnati. There was one out and Frank McCutchick was on first base. Big Elmer Lombardi, who almost tore Jimmie Fox's arm off with a drive in the sixth inning, slashed one toward second base. It hit the grass in front of Doerr and bounced toward his left. Bobby stuck down his gloved hand to intercept it, but the ball hit him on the end of the thumb with terrific impact. So fiercely was it traveling that it carried his glove into right field and rolled merrily along.

AWAIT X-RAYS

Doerr is no showboat, so when he grabbed his thumb and started jangling around, the spectators knew something was amiss. He played in the game for another play, but the pain was so intense he was forced to withdraw. Tommy Carey replaced him.

In the clubhouse, Trainer Win Green packed the thumb in ice to relieve the pain and as soon as Joe Cronin appeared after the game he ordered Doerr home immediately.

At the station, before taking a different train from the rest of his mates, Doerr exhibited his thumb. It was swelling rapidly, despite the ice treatment, and he couldn't bear anybody touching it. Win Green admitted it might be fractured but X-rays will have to prove that.

If it is only a severe sprain, Bobby might get back into the game in a week. If it is a fracture, he might very well be out for a month. If he is, the Sox will be in a real pickle, because there isn't anybody on the club who can fill his shoes acceptably.

CANT BE REPLACED

The Sox are carrying three spare infielders, Hal, Newsome and Carey. Hal can hit but he can't throw. Newsome, a marvelous fielder, and Carey don't hit.

Doerr, on the other hand, is a flashy fielder and one of the club's top notch sluggers. Last year, for example, he hit .231, drove in 103 runs, and made 22 homers. He belongs in the select group with Fox, Williams, Cronin and Tabor.

In addition, he's the keystone of the infield. He's fast as a flash, and the inner cordon, weak defensively as it is, will be wrecked without him.

The club senses it, too, because the fact that they lost the final and rubber game of the series to the Reds, 5-2, wasn't even mentioned on the way from Cincinnati to Baltimore. All the boys talked about was Doerr's finger.

Even Williams' loss in the outfield wouldn't be so severe, for Stan Spence, a great hitter, and Pete Fox are around to fill in. Doerr is irreplaceable.

Let Howard Clothes Aid Your Easter Parade!

FAVOR BRUINS TO MAKE SWEEP OF CUP SERIES

By JOHN GILLOOLY

DETROIT, April 11—The Stanley Cup, cause of all the playoffs commotion, was being shined and readied for shipment to the State st. headquarters of the Boston Bruins today, following the B's 4-2 victory over the Red Wings here—a decision which was gained the hard way and which thoroughly disheartened the Wings.

Twice in the first period the desperate Wings whirled into one-goal leads. Twice they were promptly caught. Then Milt Schmidt slammed a fortunate 50-footer past the startled Johnny Mowers in the Detroit draperies to put the B's into the lead by 3-2 and send them sweeping into their third straight win in this four-out-of-seven struggle.

So, unless round Jack Adams rallies his Detroiters into a miracle comeback, the shouting and screaming and scrambling for playoffs tickets is over and the Hub sporting public can settle back to contemplating how close the Sox will come to the A. L. pennant and what wonderful improvements Casey Stengel has worked with the Reds.

Foggy-eyed after three straight trips to the deck, the Wings will try to salvage the fourth game of the cup quarrel tomorrow night. The betting is now 10-6 that they'll miss and that the 1940-41 ice hockey campaign will come to a furious finish at the Olympia Saturday p. m.

NO LUCK, SAYS ADAMS

All but Detroit master-minds Jack Adams and Ebbie Goodfellow and the red-jerseyed athletes under their command, have conceded the series.

"We're not through," said Adams today. "Why, we should be leading two games to one by now. We've been out-lucked all the way."

"We'd even give them all the breaks if we had Goodfellow, Eddie Wares and Joe Fisher in shape for the series. The fix hit us long before we reached Boston, but we're due for a bit of fortune and it may arrive tomorrow."

The "brains" of the Ross A. C.—Arthur H. Ross himself and Coach Cooney Welland—were not listening.

"We're in," observed Welland today. "I'll eat my hat, head and all, without mayonnaise. If Detroit can come back and beat us four straight, The Rangers, a better team, rallied to tie the series after we'd run up three wins in a row over them two seasons ago, but Detroit can't do it."

The Wings didn't seem able to do anything right last night. They performed as well as they did in the Boston Garden last Tuesday, when they were edged, 2-1, though they outplayed the Ross powerhouse in spots.

SCHMIDT, DUMART TEAM UP

Bill Jennings gave them a goal at 3:15 by whacking in Don Grosso's rebound. Eddie Wiseman converted a loose puck 42 seconds later to make it 1-1.

Detroit went to the front once more at 7:45 when Syd Abel snuffed through the Boston rear guard, corralled a pass-in from Jack Stewart and beat Frank Brimacombe cleanly. There was great joy among the 10,137 Wings admirers with Detroit unfurling a whirling offensive and spinning the Bruins back on their heels.

However, the patrons turned to mourning again when Schmidt slipped home the first of his two goals at 14:07 of the opening chapter which was crammed with two-way hockey and saw the red light flashed four times.

This Schmidt contribution came on the end of passes from Dumart and Bauer and was the game's neatest maneuver. Jack Stewart and Jimmy Orlando were "taken in" by Dumart. Both went for him, intent on dropping the big Boston left-liner, but Dumart slipped a neat pass to Schmidt and sent him in free on Mowers.

Dumart had a hand in the third and decisive Boston tally. He passed out from the back-boards to Schmidt who had been trailing the play and who had time to wind up and unload from 50 feet away. The disc sailed through a mob-scene of players pushing and shoving in front of the Detroit cage, and whizzed by Mowers into the strings. He didn't see it coming; could make no move to stop it.

The fourth marker was likewise a trifle tainted since Al Motter was in the penalty box, doing time for holding Dumart, when a Boston gang attack resulted in Art Jackson registering with Terry Reardon's pass-out.

It will be—unless the roof falls in—the Bruins' third capture of the Stanley Cup . . . the Rosses took the silver shaft in '29 and '39 . . . Furthermore, if they triumph in straight sets, they will set a new record . . . no other club has marched undelayed to the cup, even in the days when the final series was a three-out-of-five affair . . . Dit Clapper, who has been threatening to lose his enormous temper all through the playoffs, cracked Syd Abel squarely over the head with his hickory but cooled off rapidly . . . the appeal of the Bruins drew the biggest crowd of the playoffs to the Olympia, which can accommodate about 14,000 . . . despite strikes and a falling off in hockey interest here, there were 10,137 paid admissions . . . Jimmy Orlando, the defenseman who is quick with his fist, hasn't yet thrown a punch.

Ohio State Athlete Dies From Blow

COLUMBUS, O., April 11 (INS)—The first death since 1903 of an Ohio State University student due to an injury received in athletics was recorded today when Albert R. Davidson, Jr., 19, died from a blow on the head suffered in baseball practice.

Davidson, whose home was in Plainboro, N. J., was hit by a pitched ball while trying out for O. S. U. freshman team Wednesday. A blood vessel in his brain was broken. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Davidson.

All that will remain will be the 10 strings finals of the men's professional singles and the presentation of prizes, both of which are scheduled for Saturday, April 19. Despite the fact that there have been more participants than ever before, that enthusiasm ran higher and the competition more intensive, scoring, for the most part, has been running far lower than in past tournaments.

For some strange reason many of the top-flight performers just haven't been able to hit their best stride and as a result have turned in mediocre results.

Not one of the professional or "open" divisions has approached the figures of the 1940 tournament. Unless the pin boy leader of the current tournament, Joe Michael, of the Blue Hill Bowlway, is thereby classified, Michael's 368 alone is greater than his predecessor's effort.

LOWEST IN TOURNEY ANNALS

Only the amateurs have bettered the 1940 marks, Mrs. Mae Kenney of Canton, who set a new world record of 353 in the women's singles; Frank Pace of Charlestown and Cecilio Lufrier of Somerville, with their 697 in the men's doubles, and Joseph C. Available of Boston University, whose 350 represented a world record in the college division.

The discrepancy is most marked in the team competitions where the present leading scores are lowest for such a late stage in all the tournament annals.

As matters now stand the Cape Cod Recreation men's team of West Yarmouth is setting the pace with 1539, just 136 pins under last year's winning tally, and the United Shoe Machinery Boston office team is heading the women's lists at 1379 pins, 63 below the 1940 achievement.

With an avalanche of starters today and tomorrow, many new leaders are in prospect and with championship awards waiting to be plucked right and left, exciting moments may be expected.

Thursday's hundreds of starters found the going as difficult as the Wednesday crop. Few and far between were the outstanding achievements on both days.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Jack Diamond, a 16-year-old Wellesley High sophomore, saved the day yesterday when his 324 accounted for the only new yearly mark. He flew out front in the schoolboy division in which his brother Henry wound up runner-up last year.

Little Nancy Higgins, a freshman at Dorchester High, contributed her bit to celebrate her 15th birthday. Her 273, the same score which landed her in third place 12 months ago, left her just one pin away from the current leading score of 274 owned by Ruth Sanchez, in Laconia, N. H., school girl.

Promptly at 7:30 tomorrow night, some hundred professionals will start the quest for the highly-prized and valuable singles championship. All of these men are requested to report to Manager Jack Stafford by 7 o'clock at the latest, and none will be admitted to the competition who is not ready on the firing lines at the 7:30 zero hour.

OWENS IMPROVED

CHICAGO, April 11 (INS)—Clarence "Brick" Owens, former veteran American League umpire, was reported much improved today after being critically ill following a heart attack. Owens was for a time under an oxygen tent, but this now has been removed.

SPEED QUEEN of the American-Record Silver Skates Derby, Mary Burke of Worcester receives the "Bess Ehrhardt Trophy" from Bess Ehrhardt, left, star of the "Ice Follies" at the Garden.

Bruins' Farm Lose 'Rubber'

CLEVELAND, April 11 (AP)—The Cleveland Barons last night won the American League hockey championship with a 3 to 2 victory over the Hershey Bears in an overtime game before 10,743, Earl Bartholme, Baron winger, flipped in the winning shot at 1:25 of the overtime.

The contest was the fifth of the final playoff series.

12,000 SEE 'ICE FOLLIES'

The Ice Follies of 1941, popular ice revue, received an enthusiastic welcome when it opened its four-day return engagement before 12,000 persons at the Garden last night.

The Follies, which played to capacity houses during its appearance earlier this season, presented its well-known stars and acts with but a few minor changes. Such featured performers as the inimitable Evelyn Chandler, lovely Bess Ehrhardt, and the talented Shipstad brothers, Eddie and Roy, together with Oscar Johnson continued to receive the greatest applause. Frick and Frack, clever Swiss team, and the McKellen brothers, acrobatic skaters, also received a generous number of encores.

The lone missing star was Heine Brock, sensational pantomimist, who parted company with the show recently in order to open his successful boys camp in the Midwest. The Ice Follies will be presented each evening through Sunday with matinees on Saturday and Sunday.

DE MAR TO ANSWER GUN FOR 23D B A A MARATHON

The number of former winners entered for the 45th B. A. A. Marathon to be held on Patriots' Day, Saturday, April 19, was increased to three with the announcement by Marathon Director Tom Walsh of the receipt of the signed blank of the most consistent of all marathon runners, Clarence H. DeMar, now representing the Boston Typo Sports Assn.

In fact DeMar has a record of seven wins in the famous Unicorn classic, and is the only runner who has won the event more than twice. He made his first start in the B. A. A. Marathon in 1910 when he finished second to Fred Cameron of Amherst, N. S.

The next year, 1911, DeMar won the event and repeated his victories in 1922, 1923, 1924, 1927, 1928 and 1930. During all the years that the veteran has run in this event, and next Saturday will be his 23d B. A. A. race, Clarence has never been worse than 30th, and that was in 1939. His record shows that he finished second twice (1910 and 1925); 3rd in 1917 and 1926; 5th in 1931, 7th in 1928, 8th in 1933, 9th in 1929, 14th in 1937, 16th in 1934 and 1936, 18th in 1932 and 1935 and 27th in 1940.

Other former winners already entered for April 19 are Bill Kennedy, L. Portchester, Ct., who won in 1915, and Johnny Kelley, Edison Employees' Assn., Boston, the 1935 winner.

Other entries announced include Joe Kleinerman, Gloucester, A. C. New York, who finished in 33d place last year; Bill E. J. Foster, Norfolk Y. M. A., Roxbury; Jimmy McKissack, Nevin Schopf and Joseph Harvey, all three representing the Mitchell A. A. of Philadelphia, Pa.; Cornelius J. Quinn, St. Teresa's Holy Name A. A. New York City; Joseph Gonçalves, Jr., Cambridge; Pvt. Jack Lockland, Co. B, 104th Engineers, Camp Edwards; Charles C. Raymond, Laconia, N. H.; Ollie Manninen, Florence A. A., Gardner, Mass.

Les Pawson Tops List of 75 Racers In 10-Mile Cathedral Road Test

Leslie Pawson, Pawtucket R. L. Marathoner, tops the list of 75 starters slated to go to the post in the annual 10-mile road race of the Cathedral Club tomorrow afternoon. Pawson in preparing for the Patriots' Day B. A. A. Marathon will find plenty of competition coming from Andre Brunelle and Joe Smith of the North Medford Club, Paul Donato, General Electric, and Johnny Semple, B. A. A.

Andrew 'Hawk' Zamparelli, Medford, winner of the event last year, will not be in the running. Zamparelli, who enlisted in the Army recently, is in training in Camp Hulen, Texas.

The run will start at the Cathedral clubhouse, Union Park st., in the South End, course through South Boston to Castle Island, returning via the Strandway Camp to the clubhouse.

Possibly the only good thing about the war is that thousands of Americans have discovered that Trommer's White Label Beer beats any imported beer they ever tasted! Choicest hops. Barley-malt only (no other grain added!). Nearly 50 years of "knowing how" to brew beer the Old World way. That's White Label—the beer that's largely taking the place of imported beers.

HEADERS' GEORGE MORIARTY MAY GET COLBY GRID BERTH

NEW YORK, April 11 (The Special News Service)—The Chicago Grapevine says Gunnar Barlund is going to do some whistle tooting at Monday's meeting of the Illinois Boxing Commission . . . Bates is announcing Ducky Pond as its new head coach . . . And it is pretty well known that George Moriarty, who has been doing a swell job at Marblehead (Mass.) High, has the inside track at Colby.

Newsom, Benton Slated to Hurl

DAYTON, O., April 11 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers picked up today when they left off last fall—playing the world champion Cincinnati Reds. Buck Newsom and Al Benton were slated to hurl the first session of the three-game series that will wind up the Tigers' season.

Joe Zanolli, young infielder, has been forgiven for reporting to Greenville (S. C.) to the Sally League instead of to Greenville (N. C.) in the coastal plain loop . . . Cleveland may be the next addition to the Mike Jacobs empire.

ODE TO SPRING
Spring has sprung,
The grass has riz,
But it's still unsung
Where the flowers is.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

Chicago writers who have seen the Pirates unhesitatingly tab them the worst looking club in the majors . . . Jimmy Cagney, the movie star, has sent four of his trotters East for the summer campaign . . . Could North Carolina and Princeton be planning a football reunion? Anyway, darned near the entire Tiger athletic staff—Christian Gauss, chairman of the athletic council; Head Coach Tad Wieman, Vice-President George Brinkley and Track Coach Matty Geiss—is spending the spring holidays in Chapel Hill this week. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Zellmer of Milwaukee are Marquette grid fans and don't care who knows it. They have named their new baby Thomas Stidham Zellmer.

NAMES IS NAMES

Manager Bruno Betzel drove into Durham, N. C., with a whole rumble seat filled with extra monickers. Full name is Christian Frederick Albert John Henry David Betzel. When he got there he found he'd have to buy his hot dogs from Bertram Graeme Frazer Redfield Warren Simpson.

Only 2 per cent of the bettors on New York tracks last season patronized the $100 slot . . . Add memories. When the Yanks played in Wilmington, Del., yesterday, Manager Joe McCarthy recalled he broke into baseball there 34 years ago—and was fired.

Joe Louis will sponsor a Negro open golf championship on his dude ranch April 12-15 and put up $1000 prize money . . . Both Look and Liberty pick the Reds and Yankees to crash in again.

HEAR, HEAR

Larry MacPhail is going on "The Sports Newsreel of the Air" Sunday night to tell the fans Mungo will throw his high balls forward instead of backward this season.

THAT'S ALL

About the only difference Joe Louis has found between boxing and bowling is that in the ring they set 'em up for him one at a time.

WIN FREE BASEBALL TICKETS IN THE RECORD-AMERICAN BASEBALL CONTEST

You Can Win One
Of These Awards

If You Can Identify the Bees and Sox Players and Find the Mistake in Each Picture.

THE PRIZES

- 1st—Season Red Sox and Season Bees Ticket
- 2d—Season Red Sox and Season Bees Ticket
- 3d—Season Bees Ticket
- 4th—Season Red Sox Ticket
- 5th—Season Bees Ticket
- 6th—Season Red Sox Ticket

100 additional prizes of
TWO tickets each to a
Bees or Red Sox game.

Read the Rules Carefully

1. Beginning in the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American of Monday, March 24, and continuing each week-day, a picture of a Boston Bees or Boston Red Sox ball player will be printed until 18 have appeared. Give the correct name of the ball player shown in the picture and find the mistake in each picture.
2. Only one set of answers can be submitted by any one person, but each member of a family may enter, and no family will be entitled to win more than one prize.
3. Hold all answers until you have the completed set of 18. DO NOT SEND IN INDIVIDUAL PICTURES.
4. This contest is open to all bona fide New England residents except employees of the New England Newspaper Publishing Company and other Hearst enterprises and members of their families or relatives.
5. Send your entry by first class mail or bring it to: Baseball Contest Editor, Boston Record-American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston. All entries must bear sufficient postage to be considered.
6. All solutions must be accompanied by a letter of not more than 100 words on, "Who Is My Favorite Ball Player on the Boston

NAME THE PLAYER FIND THE MISTAKE

HE IS _____

THE MISTAKE IS _____

MY NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

Teems, and Why." Letters will be considered only in the event of a tie in solving these pictures. Entries must be in the office of the editor, or postmarked not later than midnight, TEN days after the last picture is printed.

7. A committee of judges, appointed by the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American will select the winners in the contest. A contestant by sending a set of solutions, indicates acceptance of these Rules and Conditions and agrees that the decision of the judges is final, and further agrees that there can be no appeal from the judges' decision. No entries can be returned. All entries become the property of the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American.
8. Awards will be given to the persons sending in the nearest correctly solved complete set of pictures. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In the event of a tie between or among two or more contestants for any of the prizes, duplicate prizes will be awarded.
9. The judges will award contestants one point each for the correct name in each picture and one point each for finding the mistake in each picture. The perfect total score for each picture will be 2 points.
10. Contestants are not required to purchase these newspapers in order to compete. Copies of these newspapers on file in the public libraries may be consulted instead.

By JACK CONWAY

WITH A TOUCH OF Spring in the air, flags flying at Narragansett Park and more than 1000 thoroughbreds exercising at the Rhode Island track, racing has returned to New England for a season that will run right into your Thanksgiving dinner when little Rockingham Park will drop the final curtain.

The official opening takes place at Narragansett Park tomorrow afternoon. Starter Buddy Wingfield will send the field away from the barrier at 2:15 p. m. and if you are fortunate you may have the winner.

They used to call racing the sport of kings. It is now the pastime of the $2 bettor. This means the average citizen. Those care-free souls who like to fumble around with figures tell us that 68 per cent of the money wagered at our New England tracks comes out of the pockets of the $2 bettors. Glancing at the millions bet on horse and dog racing over the course of the season I would say that Mister Common Citizen breaks plenty of records in snatching for stray $2 bills.

Judge James E. Dooly and his associates have Narragansett Park dolled up for the grand opening. The new Terrace Club, perched on top of the grandstand, will be opened to its members. In swank and elegance, the Terrace Club will equal similar types of clubs at the other major tracks.

Race tracks are not overlooking any social bets. They are anxious to make things as comfortable as possible for their patrons so that they will forget their losses. A day at the races is a social event for many persons, and if they place a limit on their losses they do not end up with too many headaches.

No one has yet devised a system that will beat the races. One may beat a race, but one cannot even get a nose victory if one tries to beat the races. This is why it is healthy for New England to have so many $2 bettors. People who restrict their wagers to $2 bets are not hurt so much when their choices run out of the money.

Like other folks, I shall try out a few new betting systems this season. My common sense tells me they will fail, but I want to find the answers for myself, and so will make my regular excursions to the mutual windows.

The average race goer enjoys a race better when he has a few bobs on his selection. This is particularly true when his horse is the first to register with Harry I. Day's famous camera at the finish line.

Harry I. Day will personally direct his famous camera at the Narragansett Park meeting. One reason why there has never been a dispute of a finish at the Rhode Island track is because the Day camera has always been on the job. It was Day who took the first pictures of horse race finishes in New England, and he still has quite a lead on his field.

TOM THORP WILL once more be in the stewards' stand at Narragansett Park. Sam Nichols will be the other association steward, while Hap Fenelon will represent the State of Rhode Island Racing Commission.

Bob Shelley will once more act as Racing Secretary. Bob came to Narragansett from Tropical Park where he was also racing secretary. Many of the horses that will run at Narragansett Park appeared in Florida during the past winter and during the spring. Shelley will have suitable races for them.

There will be other horses that raced at Oaklawn, some from distant California and other that have been quartered in New England since Rockingham Park closed last fall.

With the increase in the number of race tracks throughout the country and in Canada it was felt for a time that there would be a shortage of suitable horses. Such is not the case. There is an abundance of horses for Narragansett Park and for other tracks.

There has been some concern on the part of owners of race tracks whether the busy defense program will keep many people away from the tracks. It is believed that there may be some falling off in attendance on week-days, but it is believed that the week-end business will be of record size.

In Florida, California and Maryland racing has been setting new records in the matter of attendance and in mutual handle.

It is pointed out that on week days thousands of women attend the races in New England. Now that friend husband is employed at better wages, it is likely that the women will have more money to pour into the hungry mutual machines. There does not appear to be any reason why anyone should have any concern over the future of racing. It would be better to spend the time trying to figure out a few winners.

THE PRESS photographers of Boston will conduct their annual dinner dance at the Versailles Club on Monday evening. . . . This is always one of the grandest parties of the year. . . . There will be sufficient talent for half a dozen ordinary shows.

SIX HUSKIES BATTLE FOR KEYSTONE SACK

Northeast's new freshman and varsity baseball assistant, Joe McDonough of Woburn, will be especially helpful to the Huskies, because he is an expert second baseman. The second base slot is the only position open in the Husky infield, and McDonough will be given the task of grooming someone for the post.

McDonough played second for the University of Vermont and starred at that position for Burlington and St. Albans in the Northern League. He has just returned from Cuba, where he was named all-tournament second baseman in the Pan-American series.

Herb Gallagher's new assistant will be given the task of experimenting with various keystone combinations. One half, Shortstop Al Pajonas, is all set, but half a dozen good men still are battling for second base.

Latest experiment is the shifting of Sophomore Fred Antinarelli of Watertown from first to second. Antinarelli is a straightaway hitter who would add punch to the attack and he is an excellent fielding first sacker. Since the smooth veteran Walter Urbanik also is available for first, Antinarelli is available for a shift.

Mike Azzone of Belmont, not quite so potent a hitter, is very much in the battle, and hockey star Bobby Fernberg of Dorchester has looked very good in the field. Several others, including Joe Parene and Charles T. . . . still rate consideration.

The pressure is really on, because the Huskies open their season Tuesday against Boston College. Gallagher plans a reputation game tomorrow. Get a better look at some of the newcomers. All of the second basemen will be given a chance.

KENNETH COMES ACROSS AGAIN

Kenneth is none other than that "bloomin' genius," Kenneth MacKenzie of Stornaway, Outer Hebrides Islands, Scotland, who has won the affectionate esteem of so many Bostonians since the long ago day when his hand loomed Harris Tweeds first made their appearance at Filene's. Kenneth is party to that typically Scottish characteristic of packing an amazing amount of value into a dollar. . . . "whether he's pitching or catching." Just when our tailors had run short of his fine fabrics another shipment arrived. In characteristic fashion "Kenneth comes across again," in the nick of time. Hoot! The mon IS a bloomin' genius.

Ponds Lakes Clear For Anglers' Debut

By DARK MONTREAL

From one after another of the ponds and lakes between Cliff in East Brewster and Sebago at the Song's mouth, the ice has gone out under the sun and breeze of the week past, and the opening of the season will find clear water almost everywhere, with the fish hungry and active.

But keep your fingers crossed; if we don't have a three-day north-easter between April 13 and May 1 it will be very unusual.

During the three weeks immediately following the opening of the trout season last year there were only two days when it did not rain, and one of these was overcast. And we had the northeast with a good snow tossed in for brimming measure. I remember, and vividly, because those were the three weeks of my vacation. Unless we have a good rain between now and next Tuesday, stream anglers will encounter water more nearly normal than for an opening in years. It is abnormally high in only a few places.

As a bull-pen warmup for Tuesday, Hingham Sportsman's Club will sponsor a casting exhibition at Foundry Mill Pond, Hilly at Hingham, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Those passing up the Easter parade will view expert fly casting by Dick Fuller and expert bait casting by John Deane. The club's field trials will be held April 19.

SHORT CASTS

The legislative committee on conservation has put the striped bass bill over until next week. Your state fish and game director, Mr. Agnew, is on Canada's record-keeping roll for 1940 with a 23½-pound Atlantic salmon, taken on the Miramichi. The governor has just signed a bill imposing a penalty for the carrying of rifles or shotguns by intoxicated hunters, which opened on April 15 for the winter flounder, the Atlantic salmon, invariably returns from its sea wanderings to spawn at the place of its birth. The authority is Dr. Alfred Peimutter of the fish and wildlife service. Dana Chapman, I. back at Asa Osborn's, fit as a fiddle for fishing. The "law Hampshire trout fishing season, which opened on April 15 for the two years past, will not open 'till year until May 1. Don't get caught. Yes, anglers who like fresh water trolling for trout and salmon behind a slow outboard motor might try a small, air-drag salt-water reel to hold 250 yards of baiting casting line in order to get the lure far back of the motor wheel. The lure comes from a crank who wears by it, especially during the hot weather.

Ed Place, editor of Playtime, will interview Sumner Towne, tackle expert and angler, over WAAB tonight from 6:45 to 7. I'll bet there'll be at least a passing mention of striped bass.

Massachusetts Fish and Game Ass'n gives the following advice:

1—Make sure those old leaders are still good. Many leader materials lose strength with age.

2—Don't wait until the last minute before getting your shopping done. Be sure you have enough flies, leaders, split shot and so forth.

3—If you haven't already done so, check your rod ferrules; stream heat is apt to loosen them during the winter months.

4—Be sure you know your game laws; i. e., there are different bag limits for various state waters. Ignorance of the law is no excuse.

5—On the first days of fishing you are likely to hook a number of recently released fish. How about turning those barely-over-the-limit ones back? Be sure to gently release all undersize fish with as little handling as possible.

May I add one tip? Thank you.

6—Send flowers and candy to the little woman on Monday night. Take her out to dinner and to a good show. There's nothing like getting off on the right foot for the season opening; those early starts and those suppers-ground-cold.

As an after-thought, make No. 6 No. 1 in your book.

McGRAW GAVE 'CASE' LESSON ON ROOKIES

By BILL GRIMES

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON,
April 11—During their spring exhibition series with the Browns, the Bees presented the St. Louis club with at least four games by experimenting with pitchers and by giving rookies opportunities to show what they could do against major league competition.

Twenty years ago, Casey Stengel learned a very valuable lesson from John McGraw.

STENGEL

"Who Ham and?" asked Ole Case.

"Yes, funny boy, that's the guy I mean," was McGraw's comeback.

"Oh, he didn't show me anything, Mac, so I had him pitch batting practice."

"Do you think that I spent $500 to take the guy South to have YOU tell me that he hasn't anything?"

Since that setto with McGraw, Stengel has played every man he has ever taken South.

TRIED FERRELL TWICE

Casey Stengel wants to beat every team he plays, whether it's the St. Louis Browns or a bunch of collegians. But, regardless of the outcome, Stengel is going to look over his youngsters.

In the first game of the Browns' series, "Old Case" started Al Javery and then went to Tom Earley. If his main objective had been victory, he'd have assigned Erickson, Salvo, Tobin or Posedel for hilltop duty. But, no, he went with the rookies and blew the verdict.

Then, after squaring the series, he decided to take a look at Wes Ferrell, who, as it turned out, wasn't ready. Up at Austin he came back with Ferrell and Rucido and got knocked off again. And, although he was trailing 6 to 7 going into the game at Ft. Smith, Stengel sent in Nick Strincevich and before he was comfortably seated on the Bees' bench, the Bees were three runs in arrears.

MISSED CHET ROSS

Stengel hasn't only given his rookie pitchers opportunities to show cause why they should be retained but he has also used Buddy Gremp, Mel Preibisch, Buddy Hassett, Buster Bray, Heine Majeski, Don Manno, John Stata, Claud Wilborn, Sigie Brookie, Billy Wietelmann and Eddie Carzell.

Despite the fact that he has never mentioned the subject, it grieved "Old Case" when he lost Chet Ross, who is a power hitter with .281 average and 29 R. B. I. Stengel planned to give Ross plenty of personal instructions while the Bees were at San Antonio. He hoped to be able to help Chet's fielding, throwing and to cut down the Buffalo boy's swinging arc.

In all probability, from what we have been able to learn, it will be three weeks or a month before Chet Ross will get into the Bees' lineup. That's bad, for Ross is the boy who drives in the runs.

But the Bees are a game outfit and they'll battle until Chet gets back under fire.

2,695,454 Wager $68,280,202 At Florida's Mutuel Windows

MIAMI, Fla., April 11 (AP)—Florida reaped a record revenue of $2,402,773.99—$133,043.42 better than last season's "take"—from horse and dog racing and jai alai this winter.

The biggest season since the legalization of pari-mutuel wagering in 1931 ended yesterday—topped off by Joe Schenck's surprise victory in the $10,000 Tropical Handicap.

On the basis of figures compiled by the State Racing Commission each of the state's 67 counties stands to get about $33,000, sorely needed by some to keep the government going.

An increase in attendance and betting was reported by every track save Hialeah Park, the swank strip which experienced a slight falling off.

Altogether, 2,695,454 persons paid their way into the two horse tracks, the nine dog ovals and the jai alai fronton. A total of $68,280,202 was wagered through the pari-mutuel windows.

TROPICAL STARTED SLOW

During the 1939-40 season 2,517,266 ticket buyers bet $64,388,377. The figures topped all previous attendance and betting.

The state levies a tax on admissions and taxes 3 per cent of wagers at horse tracks and 7 per cent at dog tracks. After expenses of the racing commission are deducted, counties divide the revenue on a share-like basis.

Off to a slow start, Tropical Park made a comeback during a highly successful spring horse race meeting. The track had a paid attendance of 330,996 and a pari-mutuel handle of $17,491,139, against $49,943 attendance and $15,960,000 bet a year ago.

DOC ATTENDANCE UP

Hialeah's attendance, helped by an overflow crowd of 30,000 for the Yamingo Stakes, fell off from 531,862 to 320,353.

The bettors at Hialeah raked $25,457,239, compared to $25,927,876 last season.

Total attendance for the dog tracks was 1,381,139—compared to 1,153,863 in the '39-40 period when 10 were operating. Betting jumped from $21,581,328 to $24,789,947.

The Jai Alai Fronton, situated here, attracted 202,741 spectators who wagered $11,951,857. Figures last season were 184,491 and $1,019,273.

Gov. Spessard Holland has recommended to the Legislature now in session that the pari-mutuel tax be increased to pay for more generous old age pensions. A measure to carry out the proposal reached the House of Representatives yesterday with enough sponsors to make passage likely.

Buddy Lewis Expects Call To Army Ranks

MARTINSVILLE, Va., April 11 (INS)—Buddy Lewis, young third baseman, and clean-up hitter for the Washington Senators, will probably be inducted into the Army May 10, it appeared today.

After talking to officials of his local draft board at Belmont, N. C., Lewis told Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators that "May 10 is the day they said they'd probable take me."

Lewis said he asked for a four-month deferment to enable him to earn most of his 1941 salary for the support of his parents.

"They just smiled," he said, "and I knew what that meant."

The board will examine his claim Wednesday that his parents are dependent upon his income, but he holds slender hope that the report will be favorable.

"I have a 14-acre farm, 10 acres of it under cultivation, and the board may rule that my parents can live off the farm," he said.

"Can that be the farm," he said, "just about in the Army."

LITTLE BEANS RANKED HIGH ON DERBY LIST

The bookie at 49th and Broadway whispers Attention; a hot wire from the Bluegrass says Blue Pair's a clench; New England still casts its vote for Little Beans, according to The Associated Press.

That's how close the boys and girls come to agreeing on which of the "second-string" group might pull one out of the hat this spring and grab off the big end of the three-year-old turf honors.

The trio named above come under this heading, along with other capable juvenile performers of last year as Bushwhacker, the New England Futurity winner, and Arnold's Hanger's Harvard Square.

Alf Vanderbilt's son of Old Discovery, also was in this lineup until he came up with a training injury a few days ago and was sidelined from the Kentucky Derby and any other spring campaigning.

LITTLE BEANS THREAT

Except for their juvenile form, which usually means about as much in three-year-old racing as the color of their eyes, there isn't much of a line on any one of these. Yet, when you start mentioning Derby prospects, you have to give each of them a call, after disposing of the top favorites.

Of the lot, the only one to show as a three-year-old so far was Rocky Palladino's Cinderella colt, Little Beans, the "poor little critter" who was thrown into a Saratoga sales deal two years ago for $500 and then went out and won five straight and collected $14,335 last year.

This oddly-bred son of Mirafel made his coming-of-age debut a surprise party by whipping Whirlaway late in the Florida campaigning over a sprint course.

Thereby he gave definite indication he'll have something to say about it.

2 Cleveland Sport Writers Pick Indians

CLEVELAND, April 11 (AP)—Two Cleveland baseball writers today picked the Indians to win the 1941 American League pennant.

Ed McAuley of the News said the tribe may finish 10 games ahead. Gordon Cobblestick of the Plain Dealer predicted most tribal competition would come from the New York Yankees, with Detroit a possible contender.

Harness Racers Start Training For Night Meet

WESTBURY, N. Y., April 11 (INS)—Although not scheduled to open until May 28, Roosevelt Raceway today was beginning to fill up with more than 100 trotters and pacers, and track officials predicted that all 300 stalls will be filled before the end of the month.

Initial entries indicate some of the nation's top-notch campaigners will be on deck for the meeting, which will continue through July 12. Fifty-one entries alone have been made for the three top events of the first three nights of racing.

Narragansett Stake Nominees Listed

Racing Secretary Bob Shelley today released the complete list of nominations for the five stakes to be run during the spring meeting.

The Spring Handicap, opening day feature, drew 21 nominees. The Roger Williams Handicap, to be run April 19, drew 26; the Bristol Handicap, to be run April 20, drew 25. The $10,000 added Rhode Island Handicap, to be run May 3, proved attractive to 24 and the Blackstone Valley Handicap, closing day feature to be run May 10, drew 36 nominations.

Skiing? Ho-Hum

Poor winter sports conditions for the Easter week-end were predicted today by the Boston Weather Bureau in its weekly sports bulletin. The forecaster said:

"Weather will be fair Saturday followed by increasing cloudiness Sunday. Afternoon temperatures will be above freezing at lower levels and above 50 degrees at lower levels throughout. Northern New England while early morning minimum will average near freezing."

Measles Win Golf Tilt for College King

ATHENS, Ga., April 11 (AP)—Dixon Brooke, national inter-collegiate golf champion from the University of Virginia, rode into the second round of the southern intercollegiate today—on a case of measles.

Brooke was paired against Grover Poole of Duke University in a first round test but late yesterday Poole broke out with a rash and his coach packed him off to bed.

Today Poole had measles, Brooke had a default victory.

Phils Grapefruit Record Impressive

MARTINSVILLE, Va., April 11 (AP)—The lovely Phils? You'll have to smile when you say that about their Grapefruit League record. They have won five of their last six games. They have rattled off 13 home runs. And they have been shut out only once—by Charlottesville of the Sally League, which used Roy Bruner, a Philly twirler.

NUCKOLS ON JOB

Steward Sam Nuckols arrived from Florida three days early at the request of State Racing Administrator John E. Martin and is assisting the administrator's office in putting on applications for licenses.

AUSTEN LAKE

Only AUSTEN LAKE Could Write THIS Story of The War

Boston's own war correspondent, the first American newspaperman to be permitted to sail to England and back on a convoy, now tells his thrilling experiences on land and sea. His new series tells the story of Britain's war behind the battles and bombings. It is greater than his last, "The RAF Wounded Speak." Don't miss a single installment of—

Camp Fire

Fire caused by big 75 mm. shells during practice on artillery range at Camp Edwards sweeps acres of timber and brush ... and soldiers are called into action. Here 182nd Infantry troops leave area when fire threatened their safety.

Upset

Truck gets too close to a cellar hole at the new Heath st., Roxbury, housing project ... and topples in on its side. Driver John Garvey of Dorchester clambered out ... and the big dirt diggers were put to work bringing his machine to the surface.
